NEW SCHEDULE FOR COLTS NOW APPROVED

Conference Brings Agreement Upon Season's Games

By DWIGHT HUTCHINSON

At a special meeting of the San Gabriel Valley League, held at the high school last Wednesday afternoon and evening, twenty-three representatives from the six member schools decided the policies that will guide Covina's athletic career for the next year.

Actually, two meetings were held, the first with Jordan and Excelsior, the two departing schools, in attendance, and the ssecond with Covina, the new member, joining in the proceedings.

First business was to elect officers, and from the twenty-three principals, vice-principals, and coaches, B. L. Bergstrom, vice-principal at El Monte, was elected president; V. R. Ross, vice-principal at Covina, vice-president; John Love of Montebello, secretary; and Arthur Wilson of Monrovia, treasurer.

The assembly then voted a thirty-five-cent general admission price for varsity football games, with a price not to exceed twenty-five cents for lightweight B games. Student-body tickets will be honored thruout the league. The rest of the time was devoted to drawing up a working schedule for league football and baseball games. Following the business meeting, the representatives were served dinner in the high school cafeteria.

Covina's 1937 grid lineup will be:
October 15—Montebello, there.
October 22—Monrovia, here.
October 29—Burbank, there.
November 5—Pasadena, here.
November 11, 12, or 19—El Monte, there.

The basketball schedule simply reverses the football lineup in the first round, with changes occurring in the second set of contests. Only a few of the schools will play in C and D weight divisions in basketball, but all will have teams in varsity and B sections. In like manner, all the schools will be represented in varsity and B football, but only a few have class C teams.

Covina's shift in league affiliation should bring increased interest in all the sports on the league calendar, for once again the Colts will compete with valley teams of their size and ability.

Forced to Vacate, McElfresh Puts on Sale

Because of the sale of the building in which the business is located, the McElfresh dry goods store is forced to vacate within the next week or two, and in order to reduce the stock before removal Mr. McElfresh is putting on a removal sale beginning today. Prices have been deeply cut in all departments in order that the goods may be moved as rapidly as possible.

The McElfresh advertisement in this issue of the Argus lists a number of the price reductions, but there are many more thruout the store that could not be listed because of lack of space. Covina shoppers are given an opportunity to make many worthwhile savings, but as this is a sale where new goods will not be added to go on sale, those who attend early will naturally receive the best values and selections.

RICHARD HALLIBURTON

Noted Explorer to Speak for Junior Lions

A man who sees the world as a picture filled with romance and adventure, is Richard Halliburton, noted writer and speaker, who comes to Covina high school auditorium next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, under the sponsorship of Covina Junior Lions club.

That the young men of Covina were able to capture this internationally known figure for an appearance here is in itself remarkable, and Covina lovers of real adventure, told in graphic style, will find the evening one out of the ordinary.

Richard Halliburton's popularity thru his non-fiction books has struck a high mark in this country. His elephants ride over the Alps, his visit to Abyssinia, his death-bed interview with the assassin of the Russian Romanoffs, his life as a monk in a monastery on Mt. Athos, and many other experiences fall in a thrilling sequence from his lips, making of him one of the most captivating speakers of today.

President Larry Kendrick, Glenn Koch, Gordon Foster and a big crew of Junior Lions are selling tickets and making arrangements. The money, they explain, is to be used by the Covina Coordinating council to finance children for the summer camp, giving opportunity for a number to attend who could not otherwise meet the expenses. Tickets are on sale at the chamber of commerce, Miss Hazel Towner; Finch's jewelry store, and Shep's Malt shop.

Charter Oak Scouts Building New Clubhouse

Charter Oak Boy Scout troop, under the inspiration of Frank H. Sherman and others, has acquired the lumber and has the foundation partly finished for a new clubhouse, it was announced last Monday night at the court of honor, held in Memorial hall.

With Ben S. Millikan presiding, second-class awards were presented to members of Covina Rotary troop, Chet White, scoutmaster. Those receiving recognition were Allan Baldridge, Albert Hiebert, Calvin Reed, with merit badges going to Gordon Bosworth and Victor Killgore.

Covina American troop, Jack Bell, scoutmaster, received recognition in second-class awards to Joe Cornet, Jimmy Heath, Joe King and Allen Wilcox, first-class awards to Kenneth Findley, merit badges to Kenneth Findley, Harold Jobe, Frederick Preston.

Charter Oak troop, Edward Allen, scoutmaster, received recognition in merit badges for Terry Chambers and Forrest Prince. Awards were presented by E. C. Kent, Oscar Lindahl, Frank Sherman, and Victor Teeney.

Colored motion pictures of China, a continuation of a showing made last month, were enjoyed as presented by J. K. Overholtzer.

TROUT SEASON STARTS LOCAL MEN DREAMING

Canyon Streams to Be Annual Lure for Fishermen

A new sit-down strike, where you sit down and the fish are supposed to do the striking, was under earnest discussion at luncheon tables in Covina the last few days, led by such well-known agitators as Dean Fesler, George Peden, Bill Edgett, Bill Warren, with a few others able to get a word in edgewise occasionally. The fishing season opens May first, a week from Saturday.

More than in any other year in years the local devotees of rod and reel are rarin' to go, because the water is high, but not too high, in every stream, the streams have been well stocked, and nearly everyone is completely fed up on arguments about the supreme court and the Wagner bill. A change of scene is desired.

George Peden, local hardware man, has a mind about fishing that is something like the boy who couldn't have any cake until suppertime, but there was nothing to prevent him from hanging around and looking at the cake. George has been roaming around thru the local canyons, snooping over the pools and counting the big ones for several weeks. He reports that the three forks of the San Gabriel river above the big flood control dam will provide fine fishing for a few weeks,

Lions Begin Planning for Fourth o' July

First work on the annual Fourth of July celebration in Covina city park was launched Monday at the weekly meeting of the Lions club, the organization which for many years sponsored and directed this midsummer affair. Some of the committees were appointed ,and will begin outlining the events and program.

John Tallman, for a number of years an active member of the club, was selected to be president of the organization during the coming year, and others who will serve with him are: Dean Fesler, first vice; Pete Varcoe, second vice; George Ross; third vice; Charles Ham, secretary; Bill Evans, treasurer; Gordon Rhoades, lion tamer; Bill Edgett and Guy Harris, new directors. Francis Stanton and Hiram Kemp ran a dead heat in votes for the position of tail-twister, and this will be decided at the next meeting.

The members pledged full cooperation and attendance at the meeting sponsored by the Junior Lions next Wednesday night in the high school auditorium, when Richard Halliburton, world traveler, will be the attraction.

One of the largest delegations from the local club was expected to be in attendance last night at the meeting of the Foothill council.

MEN'S CLUB HEARS NOTED CLAREMONT WOMAN URGE SUPPORT FOR "CASA COLINA"

MRS. FRANCES ELEANOR SMITH

STORY OF CRIPPLED CHILDREN IN NEED OF WATER-CURE TOLD TO COVINA VALLEY SUPPER MEETING

Something really out of the usual and interesting in motion pictures was shown before Covina Men's club last Friday night, when the group interested in the "Casa Colina" infantile paralysis institution near Pomona gave an illustrated talk on the manner in which these afflicted children are treated by the "water cure."

The pictures were taken at an orthopaedic hospital in Los Angeles, and shown by Dr. G. H. Ernsberger of Covina, while at the same time, Mrs. Frances Eleanor Smith of Pomona explained the treatment. Mrs. Smith was introduced by Mrs. Marion B. Reed, widow of the late Dr. W. A. Reed. She is heading a group in Covina interested in the financing of "Casa Colina," which is an estate left in trust for some such purpose by the late Mrs. Margaret Fowler.

With Henry Damerel preparing a list of citizens for the appeal by letter and personal call, the committee for "Casa Colina" met this week and began a quiet campaign for funds. Mr. Damerel said that he had no doubt but that the city and valley citizens would respond fully to the need in providing for this worthy movement. Headed by Mrs. Marion B. Reed, the committee consists of Mrs. Mary M. Coman, Mrs. Irven G. Reynolds, Mrs. L. Boyd King, Mrs. J. D. Reed, Henry Damerel, Harry Gordon, Dr. G. H. Ernsberger, Miss Laura Allison, William Knotts, Mrs. E. H. Walters, and Edwin Jobe.

The Men's club, presided over by President Stanley F. Trueblood, heard some very satisfying music from the "Four Tones Male Quartet," a group of colored men who are often heard on the radio. Their peculiar harmonizing of many of the old songs of the south was very pleasing. Joe Coles, club song leader, led the men in the singing of "America, the Beautiful"; "Nellie Was a Lady"; "All Thru the Night"; and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," the last one being sung by Dean Fesler from the stage, with the audience helping on the responses.

Speaker for the evening was Paul S. Armstrong, general manager of California Fruit Growers Exchange, whose address in part is found on another page.

Each of the more than one hundred twenty-five guests at the tables signed his name to a club greeting which was forwarded by Secretary Edwin Coles to L. L. Ratekin, Covina business man and long-time Men's club member, who is recuperating from an operation in Covina hospital.

High School's Annual Music Program Tonight

As a separate and distinctive effort, the program to be given tonight (Friday) by the music department of Covina high school is among the most ambitious of any in the history of the school, and has a larger number of participants than in many years.

Directed by Frank W. Cummings and Roy Benz of the music department, it will feature four guest soloists, Phyla Wood, soprano of Claremont college; Islay Rogers, contralto, of Pasadena; Ross Parks, of Pomona, tenor; and Archie Moore, Ontario, bass.

These soloists, combined with the boys' and girls' glee clubs, will sing the old opera, "Martha," by Flotow, with the high school orchestra furnishing the instrumentation. Roy Benz, who has been teaching band instruments, will introduce new instrumental features.

The orchestral program, aside from the opera, calls for piano solos by Betty Reed, who has been developed into one of the best pianists of the valley, and with Madame Zuniga at the second piano. The orchestra will be augmented in these numbers by a girls' ensemble.

The girls' and boys' glee clubs will sing four numbers each, and there will be four numbers by the band. The opera, "Martha," in concert form, will be comprised of thirteen solo numbers and choruses. There are 130 voices in the chorus and 72 in the orchestra, the largest ensemble in many years.

There are many citizens of the Covina valley who remember well this old opera, "Martha," with its tuneful numbers and bright comedy, produced in Vienna in 1847. The action takes place in England in the reign of Queen Anne. Although many of the solo numbers are still used in concert by great artists, the one interpolated number that is best known is "The Last Rose of Summer."

MRS. HEDGES IMPROVING

Mrs. J. K. Hedges of 1804 South Lark Ellen boulevard is recovering rapidly at her home from the accident which happened a week ago Wednesday, when she drove her car into a tree in an effort to avoid a dog that suddenly crossed the street. The car was badly wrecked and Mrs. Hedges suffered bruises and other injuries that necessitated a stay of several days in the local hospital.

VALLEY MASONS SPONSORING SCHOOL WEEK

Programs in Every District Planned Day and Evening

Covina valley members of the Masonic fraternities are once more sponsoring the annual visitation to the schools by all citizens, and in a communication issued this week are setting forth the program for each day and evening. This has been an activity that has grown to be a valued event in all parts of the United States. The committee statement follows:

Next week, April 26 to 30, will be observed in the schools of the Covina district as school week. There will be appropriate exercises in all schools, which are open free to the general public, and a cordial invitation is extended to all to visit the schools.

Monday morning, April 26, at 10 o'clock, the Merwin school, corner of Irwindale avenue and Arrow highway, will present a musical program, featuring a guitar club of sixteen members, and girls' glee club, under the leadership of Harry James Nielsen. Other features will be under guidance of Mrs. May Brownfield, school principal.

Monday evening, at 7:30, at Covina high school, Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin of Wilshire Boulevard Temple, Los Angeles, will give an address on the subject, "The Function of Education in Its Relation to the Church and World Affairs." All should hear this learned speaker.

Tuesday, April 27, at West Covina grammar school, at 1:30, there will

Seniors Drill on Coming Comedy-Drama

An amusing three-act comedy, "So This Is London," will be the high school's next dramatic presentation.

Cast of seventeen seniors, all with previous training in major plays, went into rehearsal last week, with the date of production set for May 7.

Arthur Goodrich's humorous story tells the tale of an American business man, his wife and son, who make their first trip to England. The young son falls in love with an English aristocrat's daughter whose parents are as opposed to the American customs and habits as the Americans are opposed to the English tradition. From this basis, the play bubbles with laughter and clearly-constructed dialogue, rising to its inevitable climax and conclusion.

The cast includes: Dwight Hutchinson, Dorothy Russey, Dixie Hodges, Bud Cleghorn, Lawrence Crook, Anna May Miller, Burke Adams, Melvin Gant, Edna Bixby, Helen Hall, Ed Hayes, Dwight McCleary, June Vincent, Esther Elliott, Paul Speer, Dorothy Netzley, and Don Dancer.

Giant Sea Bass Brought Home by Fishermen

Fourteen white sea bass, weighing from 65 to 115 pounds each, were caught by a valley group of fishermen at San Felipe, 130 miles below Calexico, in the gulf of California, last weekend, and six of these great denizens of the deep were brought home, according to a report by Harvey Gibbel, manager of Rio Grande service station on San Bernardino road.

Gibbel was accompanied by Ernie Morrison, Joe Raynon and Ike Mills, all of La Verne, and they left the valley last Saturday morning at two o'clock, driving to Calexico, where they began the long drive thru the desert sagebrush and cactus to this Lower California bay. They fished from a small boat, using tomcod as bait. The 115-pound sea bass was brought home by Gibbel, and he has photos on display at the service station of the entire catch.

Rotary Planning for Hollywood Convention

"Economic Cycles" was the subject discussed by John W. Woods of the William Lower company of Long Beach before the Rotary club at the noon luncheon yesterday in Oddfellows' hall. He warned of excessive installment buying, of the piling up of obligations in boom periods, declaring that another depression period can be expected sometime in the future as the inevitable result of a credit inflation period.

Next week's meeting will largely be devoted to reports on the coming convention at Hollywood, to be held April 26-27-28, and which Covina club will attend and participate in. Covina club quarters at the convention will be in the Christy hotel, two blocks east of Roosevelt hotel.

Wednesday noon, May 5, Dr. C. E. Barker, lecturer and teacher on health and right living, will speak to Covina Rotary. The club meeting date has been changed especially to accommodate this speaker, who will on the same afternoon address the high school assembly.

Rites Arranged at Azusa for Bert Griswold

News of the death on Wednesday morning of Bert A. Griswold, 71 years old, of 3883 Second street, Los Angeles, came to relatives in the Covina valley yesterday, with the information that this man, who was one of the earliest pioneers in this area, will be buried on Saturday from the White Funeral parlors in Azusa at 2:30 o'clock.

Bert Griswold was the son of E. C. Griswold, first postmaster here, long before the area was known by any other name than that of the lower Azusa valley. As a boy, Bert Griswold brought the mail on horseback from Spadra for several years. His father and family came here in 1876, and it was in 1878 that the postoffice was established at their ranch home at the corner of Cypress avenue and Citrus avenue, later known as the home of B. T. Wilson.

The deceased had been engaged in the past fifteen years in the retail fruit business at the Central avenue market in Los Angeles. Besides the widow, he leaves a son, Bert A. Griswold, Jr., and a sister, Mrs. Bertha Steinbeck of Hollister. He was the brother of the late T. F. (Uncle Tom) Griswold, who was the father of Mrs. J. R. Elliott, Miss Mae Griswold, W. M. Griswold, and Eugene I. Griswold.

Bert Griswold's father and mother are buried in the Mountainview cemetery on the shoulder of the Sierra Madre mountains at the head of Citrus avenue, where many of the oldest group of pioneers are buried, and it was expected yesterday that he would be laid to rest also in this family plot.

GROVE VALUES RAISED HERE BY ASSESSOR

Statement Made by Appraisers That Rates Too Low

Considerable animated discussion among citrus growers in the Covina district during the last few days, due to the discovery that many parcels of citrus property are being reappraised and valuations raised by the county, has been caused by lack of knowledge of the facts, it was stated by several local men recently called into conference.

That many parcels will pay a higher tax due to a raise in valuation is a fact, as shown by the work of district tax deputies, but the assessor's office is maintaining that citrus property has been valued too low for several years, and that this "upping" of the valuation is to put citrus into line with walnut property, city property such as apartment houses, and other income holdings.

In the conferences locally, it was pointed out that where tree damage has resulted from the January frost, an adjustment downward is being made temporarily, but that loss of crop, and therefore, ability to pay taxes, is not being taken into consideration. Inasmuch as there is a very small percentage of tree damage in the Covina area, this phase of the assessing is not a factor.

Covina citrus growers are being [illegible] tions in this area have been too low. During the past six months a complete reappraisal has been in progress, it was stated, in fact an appraisal much more thorough than in any of the recent years. The result is that in many holdings the valuations have been increased as much as thirty per cent over last year. The assessor is said to believe that this raise is justified on the ground that citrus property in this district has been out of line with other crop lands.

P.-T. A. Council Arranging for Annual Meeting

Annual meeting on Wednesday, April 28, of the Parent-Teacher council which comprises the five associations of this district will be held following the lecture, "The Growing Girl," by Mrs. Gertrude Hasbrouck at the high school. Interest is being manifested in the course of lectures being given each Wednesday by Mrs. Hasbrouck as a part of the adult education work that is being carried on by the high school.

Miss Olive M. Jones of New York, a past president of the National Educational association, a pioneer in the work with incorrigible children in New York, will be the principal speaker at the council meeting at 1:30. Miss Jones will speak following the luncheon ,which will be held in the Methodist church parlors.

Mrs. Frank Wright of El Monte and Mrs. Herbert Casey of Covina, and there will be a musical program by the harmonica band of the grammar school under the direction of Mrs. Margaret Zellers.

NORTHERN VISITORS

Mrs. Martha Webb and James Webb of Berkeley are spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Webb of East Badillo street.

Rabbi Edgar Magnin to Address Covina Forum

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin of the Wilshire Boulevard Temple, Los Angeles, is to be the speaker at the forum session of Covina evening high school on April 26, taking as his topic, "The Function of Education in Its Relation to the Church and World Affairs."

Experiences, background and interests of Rabbi Magnin are world-wide. He has traveled extensively, conducted many radio broadcasts, and is regarded as one of the civic leaders of Los Angeles. He is vitally interested in all phases of education and, as he comes to the community for the initial meeting of education week, he will bring a message that should have an appeal to this district, which is noted for its educational activities.

Francis M. Arant, pastor of the Christian church, will act as chairman of the evening, and Rev. Henry Scott Rubel, rector of Grace Episcopal church, Glendora, will conduct the forum discussion.

Citrus X-Ray Machines Proven Frost-Finders

California Fruit Growers Exchange made the statement this week that the General Electric X-ray machine for detecting frost and other flaws in oranges and lemons is a success, judging from the enthusiastic reports of association managers who have given it a thorough test during the past winter.

Seventy of these machines are now in operation, or will be in complete operation by the first of May, the Exchange states.

The original experimental machine was moved from the Exchange field laboratory to the Sierra Madre-Lamanda Citrus association following the freeze. Fruit of all varieties from many districts has been examined with this machine, and everyone concerned feels that at last the industry has developed very promising equipment for accurate segregation of frost-damaged fruit and for blossom-end decline in lemons and granulation in oranges, which are serious problems in some

Covina Decathlon Champ ◈ Helps to Humble Trojans ◈ For New Laurels

COLISEUM EVENT LAST SATURDAY FEATURES BOB CLARK'S BROADJUMP OF 24 FEET, ONE-FOURTH INCH IN EARLY-SEASON DUAL MEET

Doesn't Have to See a Rattlesnake to Do This

Robert Hyatt "Bob" Clark, of Whom It Can Truthfully Be Said That He is a Home-Town Boy Who Has Made Good,

BEING somewhat active on his feet, Bob Clark of Covina gets around quite a little, and wherever he goes, people ask:

"You're from Los Angeles?"

"No," says Bob; "from Covina."

"Yes," he says, "we make plenty of movies in southern California. But we raise oranges, too. And walnuts. Town I come from is the largest orange shipping center in the state."

—o—

Bob Clark's father, Henry D. Clark, Southern Pacific station agent at Covina, says that jumping must be in the Clark blood. The elder Clark heard a rattlesnake buzz one time, and still thinks he jumped further than his son did in the Olympics, but, of course, that's just an opinion.

Just recently, many people were surprised and somewhat shocked to learn thru a candid statement on the society page of the Argus that Bob's name is really Robert Hyatt Clark, which was the first time, perhaps since he was christened, that it had been spread right out in print like that.

Occasion for such use was it was being revealed that he was engaged to marry Carolyn Alice Rice, daughter of Mrs. Alverdo Rice, of Berkeley. Bob didn't need to go and get engaged in order to get publicity, for his name has been on every sporting page in this country and on the continent with great frequency since he developed that phenomenal ability of soaring thru the air like the famous man on the flying trapeze, and a few other tricks that he picked up at University of Arizona and at Berkeley in the last few years.

At Covina high school, Bob was a sort of an all-around good athlete with promising points, a baseball player and speedy track participant, but his real stuff began to come out when he entered the higher halls of learning. There were many events that led up to his winning the national decathlon championship at San Diego in 1935, qualifying him for a tryout for the Olympics in Germany, which he made certain by a brilliant showing at the New York eliminations with a broad jump of 25 feet 2 inches. After Bob made this record, all the rest of the athletes went home and started eating oranges three times a day, as the word got around that Bob never ate anything but oranges in training, and there is an unverified story that this was the reason why Covina oranges were on the preferred list. But that's a story for the California Fruit Growers Exchange publicity department.

—o—

In July last year, Bob Clark sailed for Germany, and faced ten of the toughest events in history, placing second in the decathlon, winning over all other countries but the United States by 500 points. Another American boy, Bob Morris from Colorado, bettered him in a score of 7900 to 7601.

—o—

Bob carries the colors of the San Francisco Olympic club, and on the occasion when the above steam-shovel-in-operation picture was taken, helped to beat the proud Trojans of Southern California by a score of 77 to 54. U. S. C. has not known, at least for many years, what it seemed like to be beaten in a dual meet. Bob's jump, just before he dug that big hole as shown by the camera, was 24 feet and one-fourth inch.

—o—

Modest, quiet, Bob Clark began to fool the track dopesters early in his sports career. It used to be said (and perhaps it was Mark Twain that originated it) that you couldn't tell how far a frog could jump by just looking at him, and the track fans certainly got no information from looking Bob Clark over, although his actions soon spoke louder than words. He was born here in Covina, where his parents live, and attended the common schools, Covina high school, University of Arizona, and University of California at Berkeley. He is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity and the Big C society. He has soared high in the university sports world since winning the far-western A. A. U. championships in 1934.

The broadjump is Bob's specialty, although his decathlon records show him to be an exceptional all-round athlete. Miss Rice, whom he will marry this fall, is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority, and a charming leader in Berkeley society. At present, Bob is employed with the Charles Brunning company in San Francisco, and following the nuptial event, they will live in Berkeley.

Theater Group Trying Out One-Act Plays

Covina Woman's clubhouse was the setting for the regular meeting and program of the Little Theater group Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Charles D. Samuels, president, turned the first part of the session over to Miss Beulah Yeager, director, for tryouts of four one-act plays, including "Instruments of the Devil," "Dear Bill," "Prayers and Bows," and "On the Bridge," with the respective casts being chosen by the audience: Miss Jacqueline Tull, Bill Lang and Stanley Gordon; Dorothy Colver, Ralph Nye and Dr. Samuels; Frances Lennon, Patricia Delone, Estella Allee and Hazel Schissler; Evelyn King, Marvin Carson and Wilbur Tully.

During the business discussion Stanley Shaver gave a report on business pertaining to "The Quest," and Miss Mae Griswold, chairman of the nominating committee, which included Mrs. Ralph White and Mrs. Phillip Kerckhoff, read the list of officers selected. Nominees are: Mrs. Robert Cleghorn, president; Miss Elizabeth Elliott, vice-president; Don Neely, recording secretary; Mrs. C. D. Samuels, corresponding secretary; Osborne Templeton, financial secretary; Boyd King, treasurer; Mrs. Corwin Hoffland, membership; Mrs. Earl Colver, press and publicity; Frank DeLay, stage manager; Gilbert Stuckey, business manager; Miss Beulah Yeager, supervising director.

"Across This Threshold," written by Leota Summerhays, was presented in a modern version by Miss Yeager, Mrs. Ralph Crook, Mrs. Harry Mayo, Mrs. Summerhays, Miss Grace Austin, Miss Elizabeth Elliott, and Mrs. Anson Boyd. Mrs. Ralph White had charge of sound effects and properties. This play is the stage adaptation of the radio skit presented over KFAC by the members of the Woman's club radio section Monday afternoon.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Cleghorn, assisted by Mrs. Freeman, served refreshments, with Mrs. George H. Carson and Mrs. J. H. Schissler presiding at the tea and coffee urns.

Mrs. Grace Stock of Los Angeles was hostess to the members of her bridge club at luncheon Tuesday. Mrs. Robert Cleghorn of Barranca street attended from here.

Mrs. Mollie Cook and Miss Elizabeth Cook of West Center street and Putnam Cook of Montebello attended Ramona pageant in Hemet Sunday.

Miss Jessie Thompson of Los Angeles was a weekend guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Knotts of West Center street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Waldrip spent Sunday visiting friends in San Pedro.

Nitrogen Bath Used to Prevent Frost Injury

A Phoenix (Arizona) attorney who owns extensive orchard interests announced this week that he had discovered a way to prevent citrus fruits from being injured by frost. He lets them freeze, and afterwards prevents them from thawing out too rapidly, thru the use of a spray chemical, he said in an interview sent out by the press wires.

Trees and fruit were sprayed with chemicals after a freeze and before the sun warmed them up again. The inventor, Col. Charles H. Rutherford, asserts his own and other citrus groves came thru the January freeze undamaged because of the spray.

"I developed the idea that it wasn't the frost, but the warmth that followed before the frost was removed, that damaged the fruit," he explained.

"Three years ago I started experimenting on a small citrus grove. I hit on a chemical mixture strong in nitrogen. After the next freeze I sprayed the trees and fruit with the mixture before the sun had a chance to warm them up. Every orange and grapefruit, as well as trees themselves, came thru undamaged.

"Six of my friends tried it during last January's freeze. They thought it was foolish but said they would lose their fruit anyway, so they might as well.

"The trees and fruit that were sprayed came thru in perfect condition. The others were almost a total loss."

Rutherford said his process, patented as No. 2,507,316, involves chemicals purchasable at any supply house mixed with ordinary irrigation water. The mixture is sprayed on early in the morning after a freeze—before the temperature has risen above 30 degrees. An overhead spray is best, but he has used an ordinary garden hose and pressure pump.

The spray saves vegetable crops as well as fruit, he says.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their floral offerings and sympathy during our recent bereavement.

Mrs. Richard Martin,
Lois and Donna Martin,
1tp Mrs. Mary Davis.

Mrs. Charles D. Griffiths is expected to return soon to her home on Broadway after an absence of a month spent with her son-in-law and daughter, Captain and Mrs. Wilbur Nye, at Fort Sills, Oklahoma.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Cullen Motter and a party of friends visited the outdoor show at the Automobile club grounds on Figueroa street in Los Angeles. Later they drove to Pacific Palisades for a picnic dinner. The group included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shank and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Kouns and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Haynes, and Petey Reynolds.

CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE PICNIC AT BEACH

Early this week the pastor of the Baptist church, V. C. Hayman, accompanied by a group of his young people, went to Huntington Beach and Long Beach. A picnic supper was provided at Huntington Beach and then the party took a swim at Long Beach before returning home.

DAUGHTER'S BIRTHDAY HONORED WITH DINNER

Sunday Mrs. J. K. Ingalls entertained in honor of her daughter, Margaret's, birthday with a dinner. In addition to the family the guests were Mr. and Mrs. William B. Allen and son, Billy, Mrs. Thatcher and daughter, Mildred, and George Douglas of Los Angeles.

Valley Y.W.C.A. Elects Officers

Sixth annual meeting of San Gabriel valley Y. W. C. A., held in the Woman's clubhouse, elected the following officers for the coming year: Mrs. H. J. MacKenzie of Glendora, president; Miss Liliar. Douglass of Covina, first vice-president; Mrs. Leo Ebersole, Azusa, second vice-president; Mrs. William Hussey, Baldwin Park, secretary; Mrs. A. A. Neher, La Verne, treasurer.

The next meeting of the district board of directors of the Y.W.C.A. will be held Monday at 9:30 a.m. in the clubhouse in Covina.

Tomorrow, in Baldwin Park city park, Jenks lake Girl Reserve campers will assemble for a reunion and rally. The party begins at 3 in the afternoon and will last until 8.

Rosaline Lincoln, Baldwin Park Girl Reserves, is chairman and the members of the committee are Helen Hall, Covina, Hazel Miller of La Verne, and Edna Cleland.

High school Girl Reserves will meet at their regular time, Wednesday, April 28, 5:30. Plans for the summer camp, Asilomar, and other things will be discussed.

Grammar school Girl Reserves, who meet on Tuesday afternoons, are glad to have back on the road to recovery one of their leaders, Mrs. Sherman Gail. These girls are thinking about camp at Jenks lake and making plans for other summer events.

HOT WATER for HEALTH

Plentiful supplies always on tap with an Automatic GAS Water Heater

EVEN more important than the soothing relaxation of a warm bath every day is the health it safeguards. And for the same reason it's more than a matter of pride to have dishes that sparkle, linen snowy white, woodwork that gleams. Of course, these require plenty of hot water!

That's why an automatic gas water heater is so necessary in every home. It provides gallon after gallon of hot water at a turn of the faucet, heating new supplies of cold water faster than does any other type.

If you act quickly, you can buy one of these heaters on unusually attractive terms. Note the easy payment plan. Then call on your dealer or gas company right away – before it's too late!

BLING

YOUR KINDLY DEED

It's the little things that people do
That brings the best in men to view,
Those kindly little courtesies
That one, perhaps, so seldom sees,
Those little acts that show, in part,
The friendship of a kindly heart.

For life is made of little things
That help to take away its stings,
It's those simple, kindly acts of ours
That help to brighten darkened hours:
A thoughtless man, with face too grave,
Keeps many a soul from being brave.

So if you can do some kindly deed,
I care not what your faith or creed,
You've done your part to start the day
For someone on a brighter way;
And mark you this, my kindly friend,
You'll be rewarded in the end.
—W. E. W.

It's queer how little things will start a train of thought. The above was the result of a little act of the Ellen dairy milkman. Each morning when he leaves a bottle of milk at my doorstep, he picks up the morning paper out on the sidewalk and brings it in with the milk. It surely is true that those little things make a fellow start his day with a better feeling toward the world.

Among his duties as mayor of West Covina, Percy Jackson sometimes finds it necessary to serve legal papers, bench warrants for traffic violators who have failed to appear in court, and other papers of this nature. So the trip he made to San Bernardino recently wasn't out of the ordinary, except in the number of the house where he was to serve the warrant. When he knocked at the door several girls greeted him. "Come on in, dearie," they urged. Percy stuttered and stammered, as only Percy can when he is embarrassed, and beat it back to the car where Mr. Jackson was waiting for him. Then it dawned on him that he was on "D" street.

Last Friday night Joe Coles arranged the songs for the Men's club members to sing while they were relaxing after their meal. I don't think the idea was prearranged, but here is the way the songs appeared: "Nellie Was a Lady," "All Thru the Night."

These extortion stories that are filling the city papers give me a pain in the neck. Some feeble-minded boy, too lazy to work, writes a letter to a publicity-crazed actor or actress and demands some money. The film hero, instead of going to the police with the letter, takes it to the newspaper and some half-baked newshound imagines it is news and plasters it all over the front page. Then some other degenerate sees how it is done and he, too, writes a letter—and so the circle goes round and round, just to satisfy a yen for publicity.

I am eating marmalade on my toast again. Friday morning I stopped in at Gilbert's to see when Fred was going to have that page ad and while we were talking Mrs. Gilbert came up with a jar for me to bring to the Roost. Guess she thought that the only way to stop me from talking advertising is to feed me.

For years I have seen men go to the phone, say "Hello," and then bark out, "You've got the wrong number," in a voice that surely must have made the party at the other end of the line wince. But a few days ago I stopped at the Tucker studio and while we were talking the phone rang. Here is what I heard, "This is Tucker's studio. Whenever you need photographs, come in and see us. Thank you." Such a conversation sounded funny to me and I must have shown my curiosity on my face for Mr. Tucker remarked, "Someone had the wrong number." That was really a new one on me.

Our Town Spatter says she is going to tell about the three-year-old who has married life all figured out. If she does (and gets away with it) next week I am going to tell the one about the traveling salesman and the old maid.

Funny things happen on fishing trips. Last Saturday night Fay Peden, Tommy Morris and Bob Tallman went out for some deep-sea fishing. Monday as I went by the Alpha Beta market Tommy stopped me. "I've got a good one for your column," he said. "Fay Peden went fishing with us Saturday night and one of the men down there gave him a new name. He called him King Kong." I went on up the street and found Fay putting on the Main street finish to the Peden's hardware windows and he, too, stopped me. "Say, Bill," he said, "give Tommy Morris a writeup this week. He went fishing with us Saturday night and now he has a new name. They call him King Kong." By this time I was getting sort of groggy and I went back to the office for fear I might meet Bob Tallman. There's no telling what his version of the affair might be.

It is not uncommon at all for a visitor at Palm Springs to send his trousers to the cleaners and then go away and forget to call for them, says a report from a cleaner establishment in that desert paradise. These rich toffs can get away with anything, it seems. If I should do a trick like that I'd get pinched before I could walk one block.

Lemon Story Told From Days of "Lime Juicers"

Statistics released by Hugh Harlan, supervisor of Federal Writers' project, WPA, show that within a 100-mile radius of Los Angeles city, 95 per cent of the lemons used in the United States and Canada are grown.

When the lemon first appeared in recorded history during the Middle Ages, it was a wild shrub of stunt height, growing on the mountain slopes of the northwest provinces of India. In the 1200's the Arabs brought lemon seeds into Spain. For about 300 years, or up to the time Columbus discovered the western hemisphere, no one paid any attention to it. By 1494 the lemon had been planted in the Azores, the first crops being sold as novelty fruits in England.

First Spanish and Portuguese circumnavigators carried the lemon into North and South America, though it was not until the latter part of the eighteenth century, with the coming of the first Franciscan padres, that lemons were seen at San Diego, San Gabriel and Los Angeles. The trees were set out about the time—1769-1770—the first oranges were planted. Their development was slower, however, because there was little interest in lemons so long as sweet oranges could be obtained.

In the 1600's and 1700's sailors suffered greatly from scurvy, which resulted from eating too much starchy foods and salt meats, and it was not until the beginning of the 1800's that a diet of fruits and green vegetables was recognized as a scurvy preventive. At one time an English law required vessels to carry lemons on long voyages. Because of this requirement, English vessels of the clipper type became known as "Lime Juicers."

In the 1870's the first experiments were made commercially with the lemon here. One of the first batch of seedlings planted was that of the Lisbon lemon that had been brought here via Australia. But the most important variety is the Eureka, which was developed a number of years ago in Los Angeles county from seed of the Messina.

According to horticultural records, there are 47 varieties of the lemon. The sweet lemon has twelve varieties; the lime is a distinct type with eight varieties. It is so closely related to the lemon that the names have the same origin and virtually mean about the same thing.

Davis Erecting New Building at Baldwin Park

Erection of a building for the R. W. Davis motor agency began this week at 404 West Ramona boulevard, Baldwin Park.

Location for the new building is just across the street from the old garage now being used by the Los Angeles County Relief association. The building permit placed a valuation of $3000 on the new structure. Construction is being handled by the Nigg Engineering corporation of Covina, which now is at work on a steel framework 28 feet wide and 65 feet deep. The front will be almost entirely of plate glass to allow for display of new cars.

A three-pump service station will be operated in conjunction with the garage, as well as a used car lot. Construction work will be rushed in order for the new concern to open about May 15.

Red Cross Annual Meeting at Pomona

Mrs. J. T. Huntington will be one of several Covina women to attend the annual meeting of Pomona chapter of Red Cross to be held Thursday evening, April 29, at Pomona headquarters. A. L. Shafer, Red Cross manager in the Pacific area, will be the principal speaker and will give a word picture of the Ohio-Mississippi valley floods, termed the greatest of all flood disasters. He has just recently returned from Kentucky, where he had charge of the emergency relief and rehabilitation following the flood.

Miss Dorothy Ellen Cleghorn of Barranca street and the University of California at Los Angeles, is attending the pledge dance at her sorority (Chi Omega) house tomorrow evening.

"RAMONA," PAGEANT-PLAY UNFOLDS AGAIN IN SHADOW OF MT. SAN JACINTO

By J. L. MATTHEWS
Editor Covina Argus

Thousands will journey over wonderful highways, thru mountain and desert, to the Hemet-San Jacinto annual pageant-play, "Ramona," on this coming Saturday and Sunday, and again at the following weekend. It is a beautiful setting, a romantic play, and a satisfying journey.

This is the fourteenth Ramona play season, according to Homer D. King, editor of "The Hemet News," whose annual special number reaches the Argus desk. Two hundred and fifty-five persons are listed as performers, and another three hundred are engaged in committee-work and arrangements, absorbing the interest and the activity of inhabitants in these two lovely towns in the shadow of old Mount San Jacinto.

Nearly a quarter of a million people have seen "Ramona" in its al fresco setting since it was first staged in 1923, the editor says. In the Hemet-San Jacinto valley the people are embued with a spirit somewhat different from that which is encountered at fiestas or chamber of commerce booster rodeos and pioneer days. They think of this play as powerful in its simplicity; that it isn't a localized theme altogether; that it has appeal to all mankind, and the townspeople work on it the year around as a labor of love. They don't think of the play as a theatrical attraction. It is to them a time when, after the fashion of the old days of Spanish occupation, guests arrive and are entertained, and live again, as Editor King says, in the colorful and romantic atmosphere of a historic past.

Many will go this year as repeaters, men and women who have seen this pageant several times. Many there will be who will view it for the first time. To all we can say that it is a journey well worth the while, just as we used to say of John Steven McGroarty's Mission Play—something to see at least once a year.

Mrs. Patten Plans Coast Motor Trip

Mrs. Ella Patten of South Azusa avenue is planning a motor trip to Bellingham, Washington, May 1st. Accompanying her will be Miss Ella Jones and Miss Beryl Cooray of India, who have been visiting in this country for some time. Enroute they will visit all the Sunday-schools of the Advent-Christian church along the Pacific coast.

ELBOW DISLOCATED

Nadia de Kibort of Pasadena, well known in social circles as a musician, suffered a dislocated elbow on Friday when she slammed a door of her automobile after it was blown open by the wind near Turlock.

She was enroute to San Francisco with a companion, Mrs. Emily W. Benedict of Covina, when the mishap occurred. She was treated in a Turlock hospital.

"Children of the Sun" was the title of an illustrated travel lecture-recital given last Wednesday at the high school by John Claire Montieth. A return engagement for Mr. Montieth, a well-known lecturer and baritone soloist, the program was a colorful picturization of the pueblo and plains Indians of New Mexico and Arizona.

How can America achieve permanent peace? For the past two weeks the many English students at the high school have been asking themselves this question, for a required assignment of every class is that the student prepare a 500- to 1000-word essay on the topic, "Permanent Peace For America." The contest, going on similarly thruout the United States, is sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary. The nationwide prize is a trip to Washington and $100 in cash; second prize, $50 in cash. Congressman Jerry H. Voorhis is offering a special local prize of $10 in cash to the high school student who turns in the best composition. Result—much deep thought on America's chances for lasting peace.

A campus cannot be a beautiful spot or a credit to a school unless it is kept immaculately clean. With this supposition in mind, the Alcyonians, honorary girls' organization, inaugurated a new event in high school history—campus cleanup week. Last week was the time selected. Posters were prominent in the halls urging cleanliness; a special assembly was addressed by several school leaders; pictures of the unsightly rubbish that followed the noon lunch period were shown; and the student-body approved a motion to make every week "cleanup week" on the Colt campus.

Wednesday evening G. Z. McClelland took six debaters to Monrovia to meet that neighboring school's team on the national high school question of electric utilities. The affair was a regular San Gabriel valley league debate.

This afternoon Butter Gorrell's Colt nine and Bill Dresia's racket squad will entertain South Pasadena's baseball and tennis aggregations on the local diamond and courts.

FRATERNITY PLEDGES

Twenty-four fraternity chapters on the Los Angeles campus of the University of California pledged 113 members for the spring semester of the 1936-37 school year. Among the pledges are Allen Troxel and Seymour Watts of Covina.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Girls' Polo Teams Play for Newsreels

Blue and gold polo teams of the Mabelle Scott Rancho school for girls played an exhibition game at Riviera country club for Universal newsreel pictures on Tuesday. This school has one of the largest groups of fine riders in the country and they have received recognition in magazines and newspapers and are being featured in the newsreel as they ride white horses and are attired in white riding togs.

Whittier Educator at Masonic Home

Professor J. Gustav White of Whittier college recently spent two days at the Masonic Home, giving personal vocational guidance counsel to the eighteen boys and girls who will graduate in June. Previous to the interviews each student had taken a group of tests, which were designed to discover their vocational interests, study habits, their health, social, and emotional adjustments, and their mental ability. From the results of these tests Professor White was able to advise each student as to what vocation he is best suited for, what further training will be needed, and how to proceed in making out his life plans.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Mallard spent last weekend at Ensenada, in Lower California.

'Ramona' Attracts Throngs

California's spectacular outdoor play "Ramona" which opened April 17 in Ramona Bowl near Hemet and San Jacinto is attracting throngs of people from all sections of the State. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Doctrine of Atonement" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. The Golden Text was from the Gospel of John: "John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world."

The Lesson-Sermon included these verses from the Gospel of Luke: "And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself. And when Jesus saw her, he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity. And he laid his hands on her: and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God."

Among the passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, were the statements: "Implicit faith in the Teacher and all the emotional love we can bestow on him, will never alone make us imitators of him. We must go and do likewise, else we are not improving the great blessings which our Master worked and suffered to bestow upon us. The divinity of the Christ was made manifest in the humanity of Jesus."

Norge Electric Appliances on Display Here

A complete line of Norge electric refrigerators, electric and gas ranges and electric washing machines has been brought to Covina by the Brinderson Appliance shop, located at 223 North Citrus avenue with the Covina Trad'n Post, J. J. Brinderson being manager of the new business establishment. Mr. Brinderson, who has been a resident of Chino for the past thirty years, is an experienced household appliance man and is thoroughly familiar with the complete Norge line.

"The Norge line has been brought to Covina," Mr. Brinderson said on Monday, "because of the many inquiries that have come to the Los Angeles headquarters from this community. Patrons who have purchased Norge equipment have recommended our refrigerators, washing machines and ranges to their friends, and we feel that we are coming into a community where we already have many friends. We extend a cordial invitation to any who are interested in household appliances to visit our display, where we will answer all questions fairly and to the best of our ability."

Business Women Celebrate "Mother's Night"

Annual "mothers' night" of the Business and Professional Women's club was celebrated Tuesday evening at the regular monthly meeting held in the banquet room of the Methodist church, with dinner served by the women of the church.

Each mother present was presented with a potted primrose in full bloom and introduced as a guest of honor. Community singing led by Mary Funk included old-fashioned songs, and as solo numbers Mrs. Thomas Foster sang "The Songs My Mother Used to Sing" and "That's What God Made Mothers For."

In a lighter strain, Ella Patten and Blanche Myers presented a comic skit, "On a Busy Street Corner," with several of the club members assisting as hurrying shoppers.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Stella Alkire, member of the Los Angeles Business and Professional Women's club and head of the research department of the Los Angeles Downtown Shopping News corporation ,who told of her duties with the company which publishes an advertising special twice a week for fourteen of the metropolitan stores. Accompanying the speaker to Covina was Mrs. Lillie Hawkinson, president of the Los Angeles Business and Profesional Women's club.

Mrs. Stella Brown was chairman of the committee arranging the meeting and Lura Hixson welcomed the guests and presided over the short business session.

Announcement was made that the last meeting of the season for the book review section is to be held on the evening of May 4 at the home of Miss Eva D. Edwards and a special program is being prepared.

Buffet Supper Compliments Miss Mossberg

Complimenting the wedding party and those assisting in the wedding of Miss LaVaughn Mossberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mossberg of West Covina, and Anthony Foto, son of Mrs. Nellie Foto of Baldwin Park, who are to be married Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at Holy Trinity Episcopal church in Covina, Mr. and Mrs. Mossberg entertained with an attractively-appointed buffet supper and musical evening at their home following the rehearsal Sunday afternoon. Twenty-three guests were present.

Miss Mossberg has been the recipient of numerous pre-nuptial affairs, among which were two miscellaneous showers given by Los Angeles friends on April 9 and 10.

Friday, April 9, Mrs. Lawrence Chandler and Mrs. Karl Krueger entertained at the home of the former in Los Angeles with a shower and buffet supper for Miss Mossberg, having as guests twenty-two friends whom she has known during her seven years' employment with Mortgage Guarantee company in Los Angeles. Games appropriate to the occasion were the diversion of the evening and following the opening of gifts by the honoree, refreshments were served from a smartly-appointed buffet table.

Miss Marguerite Di Miceli honored the bride-to-be with a shower of miscellaneous gifts at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. Di Miceli, in Los Angeles, Saturday, April 10. Bunco was played during the afternoon, and following a cleverly-appointed high tea, Miss Mossberg opened her gifts. On the refreshment table a centerpiece of white roses and bridal wreath combined with a large white wheel from which white ribbons were pendent to placecards for fourteen guests.

Both Miss Mossberg and Mr. Foto have attended local schools and are popular members of the younger set. Their wedding is to be an affair for several hundred guests and will be [illegible] by Rev. Bertrand Hause, of Pasadena.

Dinner Shower for Mildred Harrington

Honoring Miss Mildred Harrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harrington of East Badillo street, Mrs. E. P. Warner of West College street entertained with a dinner party and handkerchief shower on Monday evening. Mr. Harrington, the honoree's father, has already gone to Ohio, where he has accepted a position, and Mrs. Harrington and children will follow at the close o school.

Yellow and white motif was daintily carried out in the use of flowers and nut cups, and corresponding placecards marked covers for the invited guests, including the honoree, Joyce Colver, Marjorie Haynes, Grace Smith, Audrey Fullbright, Ann Bauman, Dorothy Reed, Mrs. Clarence Hutchison, and the hostess. The young people are all members of the Climbers' class of the Methodist Episcopal church, of which Mrs. Warner is the teacher.

Following dinner and the opening of numerous packages by Miss Harrington, the evening was spent in playing games.

Bridge Party at Cleghorn Home

The lovely ranch home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cleghorn on Barranca street was the setting for a cleverly arranged bridge party Saturday evening. Miss Dorothy Ellen Cleghorn, home over the weekend from the University of California at Los Angeles, assisted.

Spring flowers in profusion were used thruout the home, and following an evening of bridge a buffet supper was served. Prizes for cards were won by Mrs. Earl Putnam, Mrs. Albert Michelsen, Milton Kerr, and Arthur Brett.

Guests present included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brett of San Marino, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kerr and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Parker of South Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Michelsen, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Putman and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Drake of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Dorothy Griffith

Young Artists to Return for Club Program

Richard Tetley-Kardos, concert pianist, and Michael Henry Sorenson, baritone, young performers who appeared on a Woman's club program last year, are to have a return engagement at the club Monday afternoon.

In 1933 the Western Concert Artists' League selected Mr. Kardos to appear on its first young artists' concert, and a year later he made his concert debut under L. E. Behymer. He has a positive musical gift and has a comprehensive repertoire of old and modern classics.

Mr. Sorenson, baritone, sings with poise and ability to impart the composer's idea to his audience. Both he and Mr. Kardos have appeared on programs of outstanding southern California clubs, and the former has done radio and motion picture work.

In the absence of Mrs. Robert Miller, president, who is leaving Monday for a three-months' trip abroad, Mrs. Wellesley Magan, vice-president, will preside.

The clubhouse will be decorated in the spring motif with Mrs. Raymond Petitfils, Mrs. Elbert Griffith and Mrs. W. E. Knotts in charge, and following the regular meeting the program tea will be served in the parlors with Mrs. S. S. Aschenbrenner and Mrs. Dora Shearer presiding at the table.

Serves as Best Man at Brother's Marriage

Dr. Thomas G. Mallard officiated as best man at the marriage of his brother, Wilfred H. Mallard, to Miss Maxine Morgan, which took place Saturday evening at the Pasadena wedding chapel. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle and was attended by her mother, Mrs. Helen Morgan, as matron of honor. Miss Morgan wore a wedding gown of white satin with long veil that showed the coronation influence, being caught in a crown at her head. She carried gardenias, lilies of the valley, and an orchid. Mrs. Morgan's gown was of pink crepe and she carried pink rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the chapel parlors and the couple left on an auto trip to Seattle.

The groom is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mallard of Pasadena and is employed with the Forest Lawn Memorial park in Glendale, where he and Mrs. Mallard will make their home upon their return.

Birthday Fete for Dorothy Cleghorn

Complimenting Miss Dorothy Ellen Cleghorn on her birthday, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cleghorn of Barranca street, will entertain with a smart dinner party Sunday.

A birthday cake and spring flowers in pastel shades will form the decorative scheme, and covers will be laid for the honoree, Miss Mabel Gregg of Whittier, Miss Betty Gregg of Arcadia, and Miss Louise Weiss of Kansas City, all members of Chi Omega sorority at the University of California at Los Angeles, their escorts, Bud Cleghorn, and the hosts.

Swimming and other outdoor sports will be enjoyed by the group following dinner.

COVINA WOMAN'S CLUB ANNUAL REPORTS SHOW FINE YEAR OF PROGRESS

Annual reports given Monday at the last section day meeting of the Woman's club revealed one of the most successful club years since depression days. In October each section pledged twenty-five dollars to be applied on the "pay-off-the-mortgage fund," making a total for the eight sections of two hundred dollars, this being exceeded by over ninety dollars, the curators reported.

During luncheon, which was prepared and served by members of the "literature-in-the-making" section, reports were read by the following curators: Mrs. L. Boyd King, drama section; Mrs. William Putnam Nye, literature-in-the-making; Mrs. E. A. Pielemeier, household arts; Mrs. L. C. Swearingen, social; Mrs. Ella Patten, Bible; Mrs. M. E. McIntosh, garden; Mrs. Henry Persons, assistant curator, bridge; and Mrs. Earl Colver read the report of Mrs. E. J. Summerhays for the radio section. Federation reports for highway safety and drama were read by Mrs. McIntosh and Mrs. King respectively and Mrs. Lillis Miller, general curator of sections, presided.

Mrs. Marion Boots, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Lillis Miller, sang two numbers, "Carmena," and "Rose in the Bud" following luncheon, and a gift from the entire group was presented by Mrs. Miller to Mrs. Robert Miller, president, who on Monday is leaving for Europe, to be gone several months.

Section day is an all-day event, and at 10 in the morning the drama group met for a short business session and program which included reviews on current plays by Mrs. Thomas Mallard, Mrs. William Griswold, Mrs. Ralph Chambers and Miss Lilian Douglass. At the close of the hour Mrs. King, curator, reported briefly on Shakespearean day held April 5 by the drama federation at West Ebell club in Los Angeles, at which Fritz Leiber was principal speaker.

The literature-in-the-making section had as its theme, "My Favorite Book," and Mrs. Nye, curator, displayed numerous first editions and autographed copies of books in her library and several heirlooms one hundred years old or over. She spoke of the beauty and importance of poetry, saying in part that a poem was something small written about something great. Mrs. Ella Patten spoke of the Bible as her favorite book and remarked on its importance in literature throughout the years. Three books which are being filmed were reviewed by Mrs. E. J. Summerhays.

The two sections following luncheon—household arts and radio—adjourned in favor of the play, "Across This Threshold," written by Mrs. Summerhays, which was presented at 3:30 over KFAC.

TOWN CHATTER

WE'RE TOLD . . . that 135 guests were invited to a dinner dance and birthday party honoring two-year-old Jimmy Mortenson. Golla, golla, and they say life begins at forty! . . . that Bill Clayton was in town t'other nite pridefully showing off his young hopeful . . . that a movie camera has captured the affections of Jimmy—perhaps because it isn't wired for sound . . . and that Frank and Elga have adopted the "Buy Covina" slogan in furnishing their lovely new home.

Never thought we'd see the day that Gilbert Stuckey, Ben Hepner and Marion Boots were headed for Folsom, but they're on their way tonight . . . as specially deputized guards, however, escorting three dangerous criminals.

WOULDN'T YOU LIKE TO KNOW . . . what young couple are hoping t'will be a boy . . . what announcement of interest is to be made over the weekend . . . what young fella is having a terrible time convincing his cronies that he isn't married (or is he giving them the run-around) . . . what young woman should remember that when living in a glass house one mustn't throw boomerangs.

Predictions are in the air of a marked congestion on the road to Corona del Mar over the weekend, seeing as how 'tis full moon.

Was Estella chagrined when trying to appear dignified before the students of Citrus J.C., where she is practice-teaching, the traffic officers who were asking for the driver's license of each pupil (letting the teachers walk right by) mistook her for a co-ed, demanded the license and proceeded to give her a ticket. Estella says the J.C.ers will never think her dignied again, and we think that's fine and dandy . . . even students like the human touch occasionally.

SEEN AROUND . . . Virginia Palmer, attractive young co-ed, receiving well-deserved comments on her natural graciousness . . . Sid Schissler taking lots of boobing because of that sudden and mysterious interest in his personal appearance . . . Wilbur, plenty burned when he learned that his favorite blonde had a preference for snazzy new Ford V8's . . . and Covina's youngest attorney fixing bicycle tires for local lovelies.

Harry Naftel is truly the model husband. Before leaving on a trip to the northern part of the state, Charlotte warned him not to forget to water the flowers. Off she went, and upon her return started to look around. Harry anticipated her survey and told her not to worry—that he had watered every flower in the garden and had even put water on that darn plant she had in the house. Not remembering any growing flowers inside the house, Charlotte proceeded to investigate and found that her dutiful husband had practically flooded an artificial plant which she had used for decorative purposes.

Imagine our surprise Monday night when listening to the "Vox Pop" program broadcast from the lobby of a New York hotel, to hear a fellow reply to the announcer's question as to his residence, that he was Ted Williams of Baldwin Park, California.

CAMPUS FROLICS . . . Leah Marjorie making no bones as to whose scalp she is after . . . several campus popularettes casting barbed and such expressive glances at the gal with the big grey eyes as she chatted with Don (Gable) Neely . . . Gant still insisting that he wasn't . . . and ever so much talk of the beaches, tans, spring clothes, and not so much talk, but lots of evidence, of spring fever.

We've heard any number of "bright sayings of children," but this tops them all: Seems as tho a certain local young fella, round about three years old, confided in his mother that he was going to marry one of his little girl playmates, and when she asked him what they were going to live on, he replied "love." "Well, what about your children?" the fond mother questioned. "Oh, I've got that all figgered out, whenever she lays an egg, I'll break it."

Seventy-five at Summerhays Ranch Home

Spring flowers in profusion were used to decorate the lovely ranch home of Mrs. E. J. Summerhays on West Puente street for a smartly-appointed benefit tea given by the radio and household arts section of the Woman's club Friday afternoon from 3 to 6.

Mrs. Summerhays, assisted by Mrs. E. A. Pielemeier, received the seventy-five guests, and Miss Lora Allison attended at the door.

A centerpiece of mixed flowers flanked by four tall ivory tapers and silver appointments were laid on a cloth of lace on the tea table, which was presided over during the afternoon by Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. Irven Reynolds, Mrs. Harry Upham, Mrs. Minnie L. Thurber, Mrs. Wellesly Magan, and Miss Elizabeth Elliott. Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Thomas Mallard had charge of the dining-room, and the assistants included Mrs. George Ernsberger, Mrs. Boyd King, Mrs. James Stevens, Mrs. W. P. Shaffer, Mrs. Henry Persons, Mrs. Beckham Marr, Mrs. Earl Colver, Mrs. Charles Ferguson, Mrs. George Kerckhoff, Mrs. Harry Mayo, Mrs. Anson Boyd, Mrs. Ralph White, Mrs. Wallace Reed, Mrs. Gilbert Nigg, Mrs. Robert Craddock, Mrs. Ardin Hotchkiss, Mrs. James Hedges, Mrs. Stanley Shaver, Mrs. Hale Clippinger, Mrs. Grant Chapman, Mrs. Charles Samuels, Mrs. Elbert Griffith, and Mrs. Paul Freeman.

During the afternoon Miss Grace Currey of Los Angeles, sister of Mrs. George Ernsberger and a concert harpist of note, provided a varied group of selections. Rev. Henry Scott Rubel, composer and comedian, sang several original songs, and closing the program the play, "Across This Threshold," written by Mrs. Summerhays, and having in the cast Mrs. Harry Mayo, Mrs. Ralph Crook, Mrs. Summerhays, Miss Beulah Yeager, Miss Grace Austin, Miss Elizabeth Elliott, Mrs. Anson Boyd and Mrs. Ralph White, was presented as a preview to their performance on Monday.

In compliment to Mrs. Robert Miller, Woman's club president, who is leaving Monday for New York in company with Mrs. Carl Shirley, both later sailing for Europe, the guests sang "Aloha," accompanied by Miss Currey, and a corsage of gardenias and a gift were presented on behalf of the two sections by Mrs. Earl Colver.

OFF THE RECORD with ASSEMBLYMAN GERALD KEPPLE

SACRAMENTO, April 19th.—The assembly will square away this week for its biennial battle over the problem of the state-owned oil pool under the tidelands at Huntington Beach. The thing has become such a political football that a sound and sensible solution is almost too much to anticipate.

As far as I am personally concerned, the greatest challenge which this particular legislature faces is the enactment of a law or laws sufficient to solve the problems arising from labor disputes in agriculture and industry. Four measures, two in the senate and two in the assembly, aim at the problem. Into one of these bills should be worked the best features of the four, with no pride of authorship standing in the way. Any law enacted in an effort to solve this distressing problem must have the entire confidence of all parties concerned or it won't work. Should this legislature succeed in enacting such a law it can point with pride to something besides laws standardizing brussel sprouts, allowing trains to use air whistles, and a few hundred more of similar importance.

Right now is the time to visit the Mother Lode country, famed in the stories of Bret Harte and Mark Twain. You escape the heat, everything is green and beautiful; there are wildflowers in profusion, fruit trees are in bloom, there is an abundance of water—and spring is in the air. With the pickup in mining old historic towns such as Dry Town, Amador, Sutter Creek and Jackson, San Andreas, Angels Camp and other picturesque spots have come to life. On the road to Calaveras Big Trees be sure and take in Moaning and Mercer's caves, two of California's subterranean wonders.

Although little publicized, Moaning cave is classed by many as one of the world's natural wonders. Down a circular steel stairway to a point 600 feet underground you will be taken to a cavern large enough to hold a ten-story building, and a sight you'll never forget. Historic records show the cave to have been discovered by Frenchmen in 1855. It was lost and rediscovered only in 1921 by the man upon whose property it is located and who now operates the cave. The great crevass extends far below the point to which the public can now go and is slowly being explored by the owner and his son. Many Indian skeletons have been taken from this lower region of the cavern. The owner believes there is another undiscovered entrance. Access is now gained only down a narrow wooden stairway thru a narrow fissure, requiring considerable care and agility.

Spanish should be required in every school in California. Every Californian should be distinctly conscious and proud of the great variety and number of colorful and intriguing names of cities, mountains, rivers and valleys bequeathed to the state by our Spanish predecessors. Could you explain to an easterner the meaning of even the many commonplace (to most of us), such as Alcatraz, Alameda, Amador, Calaveras, Merced, Madera, Modesto, Chico, Del Norte, Hermosa, Los Alamos, Las Encinas, Palo Alto, La Jolla, and scores of others, not to mention Sacramento, Los Angeles, El Monte, Covina and Puente. Then take on a few like La Cuesta de los Gatos and La Canada Sal Si Puedes. Northern California has many picturesque Indian names—Suisun (west wind), Tahoe (bog water), Tamalpias, Yolo, and names for several rivers few can even pronounce.

In California's first gubernatorial election in 1849 the residents of Sutter's Fort voted eleven for Captain John Sutter and 48 for Peter Burnett. There were only three precincts between Ventura and San Juan Capistrano. Thirteen thousand voters participated and votes were cast in Condemned Bar, Old Dry Diggins, Mormon Island, Angels Camp, New York of the Pacific, and Coyote Diggings.

Covina Women at Pasadena Club

Mrs. Charles A. Leighton was the guest of Mrs. Mary M. Coman on Tuesday to attend the birthday party of the Pasadena Shakespeare club, of which Mrs. Coman is a member and a past-president. There were interesting musical programs and plays during the entire day ,with luncheon at noon. The treat for Mrs. Leighton was the celebration of her birthday, which will occur Tuesday, April 27..

Mrs. Leighton's birthday will be celebrated again on Sunday with a family dinner at the home of her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Leighton, in Claremont. Tuesday Mrs. Leighton will be the guest of Mrs. Theodore Lipke in Los Angeles.

Drunk Driving Charge Brings Jail Sentence

Charged with drunken driving Saturday night when his car crashed into a truck driven by Gaylord Countz of Covina, Ira Main of Baldwin Park was given 25 days in the county jail when he appeared in El Monte justice court Tuesday.

The accident occurred at about 8 o'clock Saturday night at the corner of West San Bernardino road and Valencia Place. According to witnesses, Main was driving on the wrong side of the road and crashed into the Countz truck, which was loaded with bees, before the driver could get out of the way.

A young woman who was riding with Main was thrown from the car and was unconscious when she was picked up. She was taken to Covina hospital for emergency treatment and was later taken to the General hospital in Los Angeles. Main gave her name as "Kitty," saying this was the only name he knew her by.

Main's Chevrolet sedan was a complete wreck as a result of the crash, and the front end of the truck was badly damaged.

Shower Given for Mrs. Miller

Mrs. Robert Miller of East Badillo street, who is leaving for New York on Monday and then on to Europe May 4th, was complimented with a formal luncheon and shower of miscellaneous gifts at the home of Mrs. George Ernsberger of Rowland avenue yesterday afternoon.

A crown of gold paper studded with bright jewels filled with flowers centered the beautifully appointed luncheon table. Miniature liners bearing the name, "Paris," the ship on which Mrs. Miller will embark. sailed gaily along between the places of the guests ,which were also marked with tiny streamers mounted on tinted mirrors. Those present included the honoree, Mrs. Elbert Griffith, Mrs. Wellesley Magan, Mrs. Irven Reynolds, Mrs. Stuart Coulter, Mrs. Guy Harris, Mrs. L. Boyd King, Mrs.. E. A. Weegar, Mrs. Willis Caypless, Miss Victoria Reynolds, Miss Elizabeth Elliott, and the hostess. .

Mrs. Carl Aschenbrenner of Puente avenue this week had Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vandermuelen of Hollywood as guests.

Pre-Nuptial Gift Shower for Miss Taylor

A pre-nuptial shower of gifts, all from foreign countries, was given Miss Marie Taylor, member of the high school faculty, by Miss Hazelle Ross, Miss LeOra Baxter and Miss Lelah Baxter at the home of the latter two on Hollenbeck avenue on Saturday afternoon.

Pastel flowers decorated the lovely ranch home, and the tea table, which was presided over by the honoree's mother, Mrs. Taylor of Los Angeles, was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a cleverly-arranged group of tableaux representing foreign countries, all of miniature figurines in authentic costumes.

Bridge was the afternoon's diversion, and prizes were won by Mrs. Taylor, Miss Blanche McCormick, and Miss Mae Griswold. During the afternoon Miss Taylor opened many interesting gifts from the guests, all of whom were of the high school faculty or relatives. .

The wedding of the bride-elect and her fiance, Lee Mills, will take place following the close of school.

New Agent For Occidental Life

John L. Moody, representing the Occidental Life Insurance company, has moved to Covina with his family and has taken up his residence at 214 South Second street. In a letter to L. H. Brewer of the Bank of America, A. M. Anderson, general agent for the insurance company, says:

"After several weeks of intensive survey, Mr. Moody has finally chosen Covina as the brightest spot in southern California to locate. The reasons for his decision are the fact that it is in the heart of the citrus section, close to the oil industry, not far from the beaches, and it is bound to have a steady growth."

While he will make his home in Covina, Mr. Moody will continue to write insurance in Los Angeles or in any other part of the state.

Keefers to Mark 50th Milestone

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Keefer on their fiftieth wedding anniversary, their daughter, Mrs. Tom Finch, is entertaining with an informal tea for forty relatives and close friends of the honorees at her home in Adams park Sunday afternoon.

Spring flowers will center the tea table and Mrs. C. B. Easley of Huntington Park and Mrs. R. H. Edrington of Santa Barbara, sisters of the hostess, and Mrs. Lynn Keefer of San Diego will assist during the afternoon from 2 o'clock on.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Short entertained at Sunday dinner Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rogers of South Pasadena.

FIRE CHIEF CELEBRATES WITH 135 GUESTS ON BIRTHDAY OF GRANDSON

One hundred thirty-five friends assisted in a gay celebration of the second birthday of Jimmy Mortensen, grandson of J. F. Kendall, which took place Monday evening April 19. At the invitation of Mr. Kendall the guests gathered at the firemen's hall for a 6:30 dinner followed by dancing. The long tables were prettily decorated with bowls of sweetpeas in pastel shades, and young Jimmy held the place of honor at the head of the table. Jimmy was completely surrounded with gifts from his assembled friends, which were opened and shown the remainder of the group, the gifts ranging from garden tool sets, Spanish cowboy boots, toys, and wearapparel.

Among the guests present were the members of the fire department and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brandon, Mr. and Mrs. John Koch, Mr. and Mrs. George Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bisbee, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Dial, Mr. and Mrs. Oba Brittain, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snodgrass, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Whitlock, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Southwell, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Goodell, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burk, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Benton, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Underwood.

Other guests who were present at the dinner were Dr. C. W. Wimmer, his daughter and father and mother of Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. McHenry, Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. Horton, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Brown and William Burdick, Glendale; F. J. Crozier, Ontario; Mrs. Carl Walker and daughter, Los Angeles; Captain and Mrs. Higgins, Pomona; Deputy Sheriff Rankin and Mrs. Rankin, Baldwin Park; Mr. and Mrs. George Maxfield, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Laycook, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hodges and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Verner Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Peterson, Fred Madison, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Chapman and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Coolman, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Nigg, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harris and daughter.

Valley Masons Sponsoring School Week

be an exhibit of school work and program under the leadership of F. L. Ashton, principal.

Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock, at Lark Ellen school, under direction of S. E. Bailey, principal, there will be exhibits by all grades; at 7:30 an address by Rev. Harry G. Earle, topic, "Parents and Children—Together"; other musical numbers by the pupils.

Wednesday, April 28, at 7 o'clock, at Charter Oak grammar school, exhibits of school work; at 7:45, community singing; address by Rev. Bertrand M. Hause, topic, "New Trends in Education," followed by movie film, "Finny Fighters." Principal J. M. Reynolds in charge.

Thursday evening, April 29, Covina grammar school, R. S. Chambers, principal, at 7, exhibit work of all grades; 7:30, musical program under leadership of Miss Eugenia Benneson, operetta, "The Button Tree"; second grade, play by the dramatic club, and music by glee clubs.

School week is sponsored each year by the Masonic lodges in the state, and locally has been arranged for each year by William Hoogendyk, who is being assisted this year by Randall T. Chew, Jr.

School Debating Team Wins at Redlands

At the national debate and forensic tournament, held at Redlands university last Friday, forty-five schools of California competed for highest honors in debate, extempore speaking, declamation, and original oratory.

Coach G. Z. McClelland of the high school speech department entered three contestants. Herbert Casey and Dwight Hutchinson won the decision in three of their five debates, defeating Beverly Hills high school, San Diego high, and Herbert Hoover of San Diego, all schools much larger than Covina. Had the local debaters garnered one more victory they would have placed in the finals of the statewide affair.

Dwight Hutchinson, one of some forty entrants in extempore speaking, placed among the ten highest who are eligible for finals, though he did not choose to compete in the last round of speeches on Saturday morning. Thomas Clark was Covina's other entry, in declamation.

"Add-a-Piece" Plan at Sawyer Store

An innovation in furniture selling by which one may begin a systematized refurnishing of the home thru an "add-a-piece" plan has been started by the Sawyer Furniture company, in cooperation with a large national manufacturer.

This new furniture is distinguished by the marked simplicity of design. It comes in several combinations of woods and smart finishes. You may choose it in genuine Honduras mahogany with blond maple tops, matched walnut, or cherrywood with a warm maple finish.

This type of furniture is ideal for gifts—for the girl graduate or the bride, for one may choose it from open-stock as one would fine china and silverware. Additional pieces may be added at any time.

INTEND TO WED

Claude R. Grant, 33, of Covina, and Ardys J. Hostetler, 23, of Riverside.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Shaw celebrated the birthday of the former's mother, Mrs. Nellie Shaw, and his sister, Miss Ione Shaw of Los Angeles, with a family dinner on Sunday.

Miss Vic Reynolds had as Sunday guests Mrs. Colin Reynolds and son of Los Angeles.

Trout Season Starts Local Men Dreaming

with the water high and clear and fast-moving, and with a fine stock of fish grown to maturity from the repeated replenishings by the state hatchery, located in the canyon's north fork.

Below Pasadena's Pine canyon dam the water is a bit muddy from the construction going on, but there is one big pool near the diversion dam that is alive with fine fish. No fishing is allowed between San Gabriel dam No. 1 and Pasadena dam, because this water is being diverted for domestic purposes, he said.

The Covina man found conditions equally promising in San Antonio canyon above Claremont, and in Lytle creek, and he has fine reports of fishing conditions in Deep creek, San Bernardino mountains, Arrowhead, Big Bear and Bear creek. A communication says that Snow creek and Dark canyon in the San Jacinto mountains will furnish fine fishing sport this year.

Fishing licenses required by the state are to be obtained in Covina from Peden's hardware store, Hurley Bros. hardware, and Drew Carriage company.

Proper Attire Told to Toastmasters

What to wear if you decide to call on King George in the morning, afternoon or evening, and other dicta concerning proper attire for men under trying circumstances, was a subject thoroughly thrashed out and settled by the Toastmasters' club, meeting at Criswell's cafe, Tuesday night.

Sam Stead acted as toastmaster, Elbert Griffith as critic, and the speaker on this important subject was Henry Persons. Bill Leach talked on Casa Colina crippled children's home, and Bill Warren on "Opportunities."

Covina Women Participate in Broadcast

Under sponsorship of the County Federation of Women's clubs, the play, "Across This Threshold," written by Mrs. E. J. Summerhays, was presented by the radio section of the local Woman's club over KFAC at 3:30 Monday afternoon.

A subtle treatment of that unknown place between earth and the hereafter, the play was well read by the cast, which included Miss Elizabeth Elliott as announcer; Mrs. Ralph Crook, an old lady; Miss Beulah Yeager, a nurse; Miss Grace Austin, Cora, a negro maid; Mrs. Harry Mayo, Lotus Laurel, movie actress; Mrs. Summerhays, Mrs. Camden Van Dyke; Mrs. Anson Boyd, soloist, Mrs. Ralph White, sound effects; and Mr. Sweet of the Los Angeles Salvation Army, organist. This play received second place in the radio skit contest last year.

This is the first time that an original play cast with club members has ever appeared on this program, and as this radio section is the first to be organized within a women's club in California, considerable recognition has been received by the author and cast.

Thursday evening of last week the entire cast had a transcription made of the play at a studio in Hollywood, and on Friday presented the skit in radio form for the guests at the radio-household arts sections' tea given at the home of Mrs. Summerhays on Puente street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Roberts spent from Saturday until Tuesday visiting the Rev. and Mrs. Rice, who are now living at Reedley, California. Rev. Rice was formerly pastor of the Community church at Baldwin Park.

FORMER RESIDENT GIVEN SHOWER

Friday Mrs. C. H. Park of Charter Oak and Mrs. May Kinney of Azusa entertained with a stork shower and party at the home of the former, honoring Mrs. Eldon Howard of Long Beach, former resident of Charter Oak. Mrs. Leo Harding was in charge of a group of clever games, and prizes were won by Mrs. R. M. Netzley and Miss Evelyn Whittley of Long Beach. The stork motif was carried out in decorations of pink, and the honoree was presented with attractively-wrapped gifts from the twenty-two guests present. At the close of the evening the hostesses served a dainty buffet supper.

BRIDE-TO-BE GIVEN PRETTY SHOWER

Complimenting Miss Marjorie Moberly of Eagle Rock, who is to be married in May, Mrs. William Leech of Covina boulevard entertained with a daintily appointed bridal shower and party Saturday evening. Spring flowers decorated the home and guests included Occidental college friends of both the hostess and honoree. The bride-to-be received numerous gifts for her kitchen and told the group of her wedding plans. "Fifty-fifty" was the diversion of the evening, with each guest receiving a prize according to the game score.

MANCHESTERS GIVE BIRTHDAY DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Price Manchester of Bonita avenue complimented the former's mother, Mrs. J. E. Manchester of Azusa, with a birthday dinner party Sunday. The spring motif was carried out in flowers and tapers, and covers were laid for the honoree, J. E. Manchester, and Miss Genevieve Manchester of Azusa, Mrs. Gertrude Rayan of Long Beach, Mrs. Mary Solomon of Riverside, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nottingham and Mrs. Mabel Grant of Covina, and the hosts.

MRS. DOUGLAS HAS GUESTS FOR TEA

Mrs. Gordon C. Douglas of North Second street entertained a small group of friends at an informal tea on Thursday afternoon. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. Rose Folsom and Miss Rachael Keely of Altadena, Mrs. Mary Wade of Chicago, Mrs. Marie Beck Toy of Sioux City, Iowa, Mrs. James Cress of San Marino, Mrs. Florence Bennett, South Pasadena, Mrs. George Jennings, Mrs. Edward Kirtlan, Mrs. W. A. Jones of Covina, and Mrs. Harry Barrett of Glendora.

MRS. BARKLOW ATTENDS PARTY IN BELL

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Barklow of Cypress avenue attended a farewell party given in honor of Mrs. W. A. Goodman in Bell. Mrs. Goodman has spent the winter in southern California and visited at the Barklow home on several occasions. She will return Thursday to her home in Pueblo, Colorado.

PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY MEETS TO SEW

Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church held an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. E. G. Hotchkiss, Puente road, on Tuesday. The morning was spent in sewing, luncheon was served at noon, and the women enjoyed a program in the afternoon.

MISS WILKE ENTERTAINS AT SORORITY HOUSE

Miss Helen Wilke on Wednesday evening entertained at dinner at the Sigma Kappa sorority house at Westwood in compliment to Mrs. Carl Shirley, who leaves Monday evening with Mrs. Robert Miller for Europe.

COUSINS VISIT IN COFFMAN HOME

Miss Mae Coffman had her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Mann of Oakland, and Nelson Wilson of San Francisco as guests for five days this week. During their stay they visited various places of interest in southern California, and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Beasley of Arcadia.

HOUSEWARMING AT COFFMAN'S NEW HOME

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Coffman of Puente street will give a family party at their new beach house, Manhattan, tomorrow. It will be in the nature of a house-warming, as Mr. and Mrs. Coffman have only recently completed their charming place.

MYRNA EDWARDS CELEBRATES SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Edwards of Adams park honored the seventh birthday of their daughter, Myrna, with a family dinner Wednesday evening. The table was lovely with pink and white sweetpeas and a birthday cake.

Spring flowers in profusion were used to decorate the home of Mrs. Harold Nigg of Cameron and Lark Ellen avenues at a cleverly-planned bridge luncheon Wednesday afternoon of last week. Placecards of the spring motif marked the places of Mrs. Harold Potter, Mrs. Trask Gant, Mrs. Stanley Shaver, Mrs. Jay Pitzer, Mrs. Gilbert Nigg, Mrs. Charles Samuels, Mrs. Doris Shirley, Mrs. George Ernsberger, Mrs. Russell Davis, Mrs. Edward Anderson, Mrs. Guy Harris, Mrs. George Cannom, Mrs. Stuart Coulter, Mrs. Robert Craddock, Miss Elizabeth Elliott, and the hostess. Bridge was the afternoon's diversion, with each guest receiving a prize, choice being according to score, with Mrs. Russell Davis winning first place.

MRS. COLVER TO ENTERTAIN BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Gordon's Kitchen on upper Foothill boulevard will be the setting for a bridge luncheon given by Mrs. Earl Colver for the members of the Merry-Go-Round club tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon. Spring flowers will center the luncheon tables and covers will be laid for Mrs. Gilbert Nigg, Mrs. Doris Shirley, Mrs. Ben Jenks, Mrs. James Hodges, Mrs. Jay Pitzer, Mrs. Clyde Batchelder, Mrs. Howard Varcoe, Mrs. Charles McDowell, Mrs. G. Z. McClelland, Mrs. I. Worth Everett, Mrs. Joe H. Wilke, Mrs. George Kerckhoff, Mrs. Stanley Shaver, Mrs. Trask Gant, Mrs. Harold Potter, and the hostess.

SUPPER CLUB AT FERGUSON HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferguson of West Badillo street will be hosts tomorrow (Saturday) evening at a dinner for the members of their bridge club. Seasonal flowers will be used as decorations and places marked for Mr. and Mrs. Howard Varcoe, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Shaver, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Colver, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Pitzer, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nigg, Dr. and Mrs. Beckham Marr and the hosts of Covina, and Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Downs of Corona. Bridge will be the evening's diversion.

INFORMAL TEA AT LEECH HOME

Sunday afternoon of last week Mrs. William Leech and Mrs. Corwin Hoffland entertained with an informal tea at the home of the former on Covina boulevard. Wildflowers in gay colors centered the smartly-appointd table, and Miss Grace Austin poured. Those present included Mrs. Charles Ferguson, Mrs. Emerson Eames, Mrs. Earl Colver, and the hostesses. During the afternoon an informal discussion of the Oxford group principles were discussed.

MRS. PALMER HOSTESS AT BIRTHDAY DINNER

Honoring Dr. Claude Searcy and J. C. Palmer on their Birthdays, Mrs. Palmer of East Badillo street entertained with a dinner party last night. Spring flowers centered the dinner table and covers were laid for the honorees, Mrs. Claude Searcy and son, Alan, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Searcy, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Pearson, and the hostess.

HONOLULU RESIDENT GUEST OF THOMAS REEDS

Mrs. Paul Waterhouse of Honolulu, who is enroute to Wheaton, Illinois, to attend the graduation from college of her daughter, and who is spending several weeks as a house-guest of her mother in Pasadena, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reed of West San Bernardino road.

MRS. C. A. LEIGHTON TO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Leighton will be Sunday dinner guests of their son, Dr. Wesley Leighton, and family of Claremont, in celebration of the birthday of Mrs. C. A. Leighton. On Tuesday Mrs. Leighton will be a luncheon guest of Mrs. Theodore Lipke of Los Angeles.

ESTEPS GUESTS OF DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Estep of East Badillo street attended the meeting of the Worthy Matrons' association of the Eastern Star of 1933 at Huntington Park this week. They were overnight guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hilmer.

LODGE MEMBERS HAVE DINNER DANCE

Thursday evening the Masonic temple was the scene of a gay dinner given by La Paloma chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, for its members and friends. After the dinner dancing and cards were enjoyed.

HERE'S AN EMERGENCY THAT DEMANDS IMMEDIATE ACTION!

THE BUILDING We Now Occupy HAS BEEN SOLD

McELFRESH
112 North Citrus Ave. COVINA

Our Time Limit Is Short---We Must Be Out by June 1

FORCED TO VACATE!

Entire Stock Sacrificed!

Nothing Reserved—Every Article in this Well-Selected Stock Must Be Sold Quickly Regardless of Cost or Actual Worth!

Here's the Important Reason for This Great Closing-Out Sale

As announced in Covina newspaper of recent date, the building which we now occupy has been sold and the new owner must have possession by June 1st. Much as we would like to continue on in business in Covina, no desirable store-room is available at this time, forcing us to face the necessity of an immediate liquidation of our entire stock. As our shelves and counters must be swept clear within the next few weeks we cannot allow cost or actual value of the merchandise to stand in our way. Sales prices in the face of a rising market have been drastically reduced—we must have quick action.

McELFRESH'S.

It's Your Opportunity to Buy Spring and Summer Needs in Women's Dresses, Dry Goods, Etc., at Drastic Reductions!!

A great portion of this stock was purchased especially for spring and summer selling. All of the merchandise in our store is clean and desirable and is featured by nationally-advertised lines. Now, without reservation whatsoever, we are forced to liquidate this stock at a sacrifice, as at this time we find it impossible to secure a store-room in Covina that meets our requirements. The time limit has been set—June 1st is the deadline. We have just a few short weeks in which to close out, regardless of the loss we must sustain. We urge our hundreds of friends to participate in the savings, as in the face of the present advancing market such values are not likely to be duplicated in the near future!

Because of the Nature of This Event, All Sales Must Be Cash—No Exchanges or Refunds

With Wholesale Prices Rapidly Advancing, the Radical Nature of the Savings Offered in This Sale Assume Tremendous Importance — Possibly Never Again Such Prices!

Oxford Group Packs Pasadena Auditorium

A Covina group, impressive in size, joined the meeting of the Oxford movement that filled to overflowing the great civic auditorium in Pasadena last Monday night, and heard speeches, testimonials, personal accounts of finding peace thru the application of the principles of this new religious trend that is undoubtedly capturing the attention of the world.

Typical of the tenor of these testimonials, as brought back to Covina this week, was that of Charles Ruff of Richmond, Virginia.

"All my life I have been seeking something," he began. "This vague thing called a way of life. Now I know that I have found it. Since January I have been wandering up and down the west coast from Seattle to San Diego, running away from myself. I was fooling myself into believing that living in cheap hotels, spending my time sunning myself in parks and hanging around employment agencies was the answer to what I was looking for.

"I did not find peace until I was willing to go back into my past life and measure it by the principles of absolute honesty, purity, unselfishness, and love. I found out the reason for my unrest. I had fears, tensions and moral conflicts which had their beginnings back in early childhood and were keeping me from thinking clearly. When I faced the standards set up by this Oxford group I found out why I had been blocked. On this basis of life I have found the answer to the problems of insecurity, unrest and boredom."

Many others heard from included George Eastman, a prominent leader; General Earl D. Luce, Fred S. Stripp, Olive M. Jones, J. Burke Long, Pat Lee, Fredrika Shockley, John I. Bacon, and Rosalind Harris.

In the group from Covina there were Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Eames, Mrs. W. P. (Myra) Nye, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Speer, Mr. and Mrs. Randall Chew, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Leech, Mrs. Ella B. Patten, Mr.s Harry G. Earle, Mrs. Anson Boyd, Mrs. Charlotte Naftel, Gilbert Stuckey, Ralph Nye, Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Templeton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Corwin Hoffland, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Hirtz, Miss Grace Austin, Mrs. Max Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Douglas, Mrs. Jessie Flick, Miss Lilian Douglass, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bosworth, Miss Hazel Bell Withrow, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Woodworth, Mrs. E. M. Doughty, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown, and Mrs. C. H. Banks.

Ex-Governor's Death Brings Recollection of Early Visit Here

In the "twenty-five years ago" column of the Argus this week is an item telling that ex-Governor James N. Gillett was in Covina, speaking on Citrus avenue from an automobile in connection with the political campaign.

Governor Gillett's obituary appeared in all newspapers on Tuesday, his death occurring at his home in Berkeley at the age of 76 years.

For many years a member of the state legislature, afterwards in congress, James N. Gillett was governor in 1906 when San Francisco was all but destroyed by fire following an earthquake. He is remembered by old-timers of that period as a man who showed splendid leadership, his efforts aiding materially in bringing aid to the stricken city.

AN OPEN LETTER TO PAUL S. ARMSTRONG

Mr. Paul S. Armstrong,
General Manager,
California Fruit Growers Ex.—

Dear Mr. Armstrong:

In your speech before Covina Men's club last Friday night you made the statement that during January of this year California weather was not only unusual, but unprecedented, and you alluded to this California weather several times, stating that at the time of the coldest weather in the citrus districts, the temperature was actually ten degrees warmer in Ketchikan, Alaska.

It should be apparent to you that what we experienced here was not California weather at all, but Alaska weather. Floyd D. Young, federal forecaster, made the statement that our cold wave was caused by a great frigid mass that drifted down from Alaska, which should be proof enough that this was not California weather. Also, your statement that it was ten dgerees warmer at Ketchikan than here at that time, goes further to prove that in some evil way we swapped weathers.

Just to keep our record in the southland unsullied, we call your attention to these undoubted facts. Our weather was all right, but it got misplaced and was substituted by weather that rightfully belonged in Alaska. I hope you will see that you have been inadvertently casting a slur on California weather by mistaking Alaska weather for California weather, and that you will be pleased to explain this carefully in future speeches.

Yours truly, more in sorrow than in censure,

COVINA GROWER.

NEW X-RAY FROST-TESTING MACHINES SUCCESSFUL, FRUIT EXCHANGE REPORTS

districts every season.

Much credit is due this association, its manager, Frank Webber, and his staff for their cooperation in the final experimentation under actual packinghouse conditions.

The first commercial installation was made at Whittier Citrus association, where two machines have been in daily use on oranges and lemons for several weeks. This association will eventually have one machine for lemons and two for oranges.

USED IN WHITTIER

L. S. McClain, manager of Whittier Citrus, is enthusiastic over results obtained and considers the X-ray machine the most important new development in the industry for many years.

"For the first time we are operating on exact knowledge of the interior condition of every individual fruit," McClain said. "Before we had these machines we could not grade out all the damaged fruit, even though we discarded lots of good fruit. Now, we can eliminate every seriously damaged fruit and reduce the percentage of slightly damaged well below the tolerance. We can make a consistent grade and absolutely protect our brands."

Mr. McClain has provided figures that are certain to be of interest to many other managers and growers as well. The cost of operation has run less than five cents per field box on all fruit run thru the machines. This compares very favorably with water separation costs.

TWO-CAR CAPACITY

Each unit, with four operators, will handle 1½ to 2 cars in an eight-hour day. This is an average for all varieties, including grapefruit.

Whittier Citrus ran one lot of navels that had not been considered worth packing, took out 30 per cent with the X-ray and the remaining 70 per cent passed state requirements.

After taking out the floaters at the washer from one grower's lemons and grading the remainder, they ran the Sunkist grade and took out 22 per cent frost damaged, which was shipped under orchard run, the balance making Sunkist.

SAVING ON LEMONS

On culls out of the floating tank they saved 39 per cent of lemons that were shipable under the state law. Lemons with blossom end decline as well as frosted were readily segregated.

There is no waste in a lot of fruit that is over the tolerance for Sunkist or for orchard run. With sight grading it was formerly necessary to discard good fruit with the bad to get within the tolerance. With the X-ray it is possible to grade very closely to a specified percentage of slight and to retain all good fruit for shipment.

FOUR AT ANAHEIM

The Anaheim Valencia Orange association has installed a battery of four machines, so arranged that all fruit can be run thru them or certain grades or sizes as desired.. Manager G. W. Sandilands, whose judgment in handling fruit is highly respected, looks upon this new equipment as a major step forward in the handling of frosted or granulated fruit.

The Exchange field and research departments deserve great credit, as does the General Electric research staff, for sticking to this problem for over two years, until they finally overcame the obstacles one by one and delivered the finished product when it was most needed. It is unfortunate that the machines were not available for separation of navels in more houses, but the manufacturer had done everything possible to hasten deliveries and is to be commended for its efforts and its cooperative attitude.

There is general commendation, too, for the General Electric representatives and for Field Manager Henry Ramsey and his staff for their assistance in installation and training of operators in the various houses.

Dangers Lurk in Mountains, at Seashore

From several state and county bureaus come warnings of seasonal dangers.

Superintendent Reed of the county playgrounds commission warns of riptides along the southern California seashore. Visitors intending to go into the surf should heed any warnings that are posted, and discover from lifeguards the condition on any particular day.

In the mountains the rattlesnakes are reported as numerous, owing to a long rainy season and the warmth that is now bringing the reptiles out. Every person should be excessively on guard in the mountains against snakes. Parents should be absolutely sure that children are not running heedlessly into brush and rocks, as it is in such territory that the snakes are the most dangerous.

WOMAN INJURED

An accident of a painful nature occurred to Miss Mabel Mayo of 2657 East Bonita avenue, Charter Oak, on Sunday at La Verne.

A sedan driven by Antanacio Perez of La Verne, and a coupe driven by Peter Somfeld of 928 Baseline road, San Dimas, crashed and overturned. Miss Mayo was thrown out of Somfeld's machine, and was given treatment in La Verne and taken home.

Glendora Bank Plans Extensive Remodeling

E. E. Gard, for many years at the head of the First National bank of Glendora, during a visit Wednesday to Covina, revealed that he is planning extensive alterations and improvements to this pioneer banking house, made necessary by a substantial increase in banking business in that area.

The pioneer banker said that the institution is nearing its thirtieth year of continuous business in Glendora, and will attempt to have the alterations completed by the time of the anniversary in May.

Cash reserves in this institution in the savings bank are equivalent to $500 per share of bank stock, while the cash reserves in the First National itself are equivalent to $250 per share of bank stock. He said that Glendora and vicinity are experiencing a remarkable revival in all kinds of business.

1937 Ford V-8

● If you think that "all low-price cars cost about the same"—forget it! They don't.

Ford makes a car—a 60-horsepower economy Ford V-8—that sells from 30 to 60 dollars under the prices asked for any other car of comparable size. The lowest Ford prices in years!

Check delivered prices in your town and see for yourself.

● Of course, first cost doesn't prove "low cost"—you must consider operating cost also.

The "60" has definitely established itself as the most economical car in Ford history. Ford cars have been famous for economy for 34 years, so that means something!

Owners who have driven it thousands of miles report that the Ford "60" averages between 22 and 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

You can prove those figures—on the open road—in a car provided by the nearest Ford dealer.

● When you've finished your personal check-up, ask yourself:

"Do I want to save money the day I buy my car and every mile I drive it?"

"Do I want a safe, roomy, comfortable car of advanced design—created from the finest materials to the highest precision standards?"

There's only one answer, of course—the 1937 Ford V-8.

Ford V-8 Prices Begin at $529 at Dearborn Factory. Transportation charges, State and Federal taxes extra
This price is for the 60-horsepower Coupe equipped with front and rear bumpers, spare tire, horn, windshield wiper, sun visor, glove compartment, and ash tray.
$25 A MONTH, after usual down-payment, buys any Ford V-8 Car, from any Ford dealer, anywhere in the U. S.—through Authorized Ford Finance Plans of Universal Credit Co.

Bearded Neighbors—

Covina Men's club is a very democratic organization. Clothes and appearance at this supper club count for nothing, and if a man were uptown at the time of the supper dressed in high ranch boots and work clothes he would be welcome, and no questions asked.

But the gathering last Friday night, while not exactly suspicious, was somewhat puzzled at the number of rough-bearded men at the tables—men with a straggly growth of hair on the face, looking self-conscious. There were whiskers of reddish and grayish mixture, blackish and bluish tinges, and whiskers that reminded one of an alfalfa patch where there were bad places in the soil, streaks of alkali, so to speak.

But President Stanley Trueblood made the best of it in introducing these men. They were all from Azusa, and this, at first, was thought to be sufficient explanation, but he went on to say that the most prominent men in that area were growing beards for the pioneer day celebration for the first of May, when Azusa will mark the date of its fiftieth anniversary.

All San Gabriel valley will be interested in the parade and the general goings-on in that city on that day, for Azusa's history is inseparably linked, not to say tangled, with the history of the entire valley. It will be a good place to be on that day. Memories will be stirred, a pride in pioneer achievement will be awakened, and many a citizen will loosen up and lose dignity, in participating in a form of entertainment that, in California, never grows old.

Poor Man's Butter—

For many years the dairy interests advertised with a succinct statement: "There Is No Substitute for Butter."

It is one of those statements that stand as a fact, difficult to disprove. But dairy interests became powerful enough in Wisconsin to put a fifteen-cents-the-pound tax on oleomargarine, which shut it out of that state, and such a tax amounts to a tariff barrier between states, something which is against the policy of the United States. Wisconsin is on the point of repealing this law.

Cottonseed oil, peanut and soybean oils enter into the manufacture of oleomargarine, and these oils are produced largely in the southern part of United States. Beef fats are also used, and are largely a far western product.

Oleomargarine is healthful and appetizing when made to conform to the law's standdards. Cow butter has never been supplanted in favor with the consuming public and will always be preferred if priced right. The trouble is that cow butter soars to great heights occasionally, going out of the reach of the poor. There is no fair reason why the poor should be denied oleomargarine to protect even such an important industry as dairying, especially when market manipulation is generally the reason for high butter prices. The man on the farm seldom gets the benefit from these soaring prices.

Speed the Day!—

Recent supreme court decisions only serve to emphasize what has long been in the minds of many thinking citizens—that whether we will or no—whether we like it or disapprove of it—state's rights, as we have interpreted it in the past, is now wholly a thing of the past, belongs only in the past.

All these years of the expansion of the United States, with mass production taking the place of the small, localized factory, with new methods of transportation making possible quick and comparatively cheap deliveries in all parts of the country; with modern communication assisting in this nation-wide distribution—the right of states to govern commerce in any important particular was arbitrarily taken from each state by this great industrial force, and virtually all of our commerce became interstate commerce.

There could be but one outcome to any legal discussion as to the federal government's power to regulate labor and labor conditions, inasmuch as the result of one man's labor in any state is interrelated with the labor of all men in all states.

We are moving rapidly to the point where there is to be set up a tribunal representing three parties instead of two. Industry, labor and the federal government, sitting as a three-way commission, will settle the major disputes between capital and labor in the future, in the manner in which our own California Industrial Accident commission settles questions proper to its jurisdiction.

Speed the day when this is an assured fact! It means the end of costly, ineffectual strikes—strikes which have always been borne in full force by the public—paid for by the public, but with the public without a voice—taxation without representation.

An Investment in Human Happiness—

Plight of little children, emerging from hospitals and in need of a haven where they may become convalescent, is one of the depressing things in connection with our faulty civilization.

We are careless, not callous, for the public responds when the need is properly presented. Victims of infantile paralysis, given treatment at hospitals, must be moved out quickly, because there are many others who must be treated. The beds must be prepared for those who are in the critical stage. Doctors say the children should have intelligent, scientific care for months, perhaps for more than a year, but there is no such place available in all the state of California.

It is with these facts confronting that a Covina committee, containing the names of local doctors, business men, and headed by Mrs. Marion B. Reed, widow of a physician, is promoting the establishment of "Casa Colina," four miles south of Pomona, and which can be made adequate as a children's convalescent hospital. Covina city and valley is asked to contribute its share in money to get this institution going.

It is entirely probable that this community will contribute more than is asked, as we have a way of doing this in the past when convinced that there is a need. But everyone who can afford to should contribute something.

It might be quite a thrill to contribute now, and some years later meet a young man or woman who said that life and opportunity were restored for them at Casa Colina. Something that would not fade, that the years could not dim. An investment in human happiness.

Habit is strong with the Anglo-Saxons. Mrs. Simpson has definitely left England, but the bands still continue to play, "God Save the King."

The Old Fallacy—

If we could, we would like to protect the college youth from something that happened in 1917.

Well-written articles come to the Argus desk frequently from youth groups, the general tenor of which is that the young American stands ready to defend these shores from enemy attack, but will refuse to go abroad to fight the battles of other nations. Part of this attitude is correct; part of it is wrong.

These young men couple with their decision a contempt for military training. They have no stomach for marching around a parade ground with a rifle. They are hostile against most forms of preparedness, mental or physical.

Young man, how are you going to defend this country against scientific and organized attack if you don't know which end of a gun goes off? How are you going to set up tents in the field, protect yourself against disease, learn how to take orders and execute them, keep yourself clean under trying circumstances, protect yourself in advances against the enemy? The enemy won't wait for you to learn these things.

William Jennings Bryan, who was right about many things he advocated, said, in 1916: "If this country were attacked a million men would spring to arms overnight." But he neglected to say where these arms would be, if not altogether nonexistent, and he didn't say whether or not anyone would know how to handle them.

A certain amount of camp training, training on the rifle range and discipline must go ahead of any form of defense, whether on these shores or elsewhere. The men who commanded our emergency army in 1917-18 were largely university graduates who had submitted themselves to military training while in college.

The men who suffered most and died the fastest were the ones who had avoided any form of military preparation, because, perhaps, they didn't believe in war, or had decided they wouldn't fight unless these shores were attacked. This is a dangerous state of mind—dangerous to the individual who must serve.

Dr. Inwood, Early Covina Pastor, Mourned

Death came quietly and with little warning last Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock to Dr. Edwin J. Inwood at Laguna, who, as a student at Southern California college over fifty years ago, came to Covina Methodist church as its young pastor.

Dr. Inwood succumbed to a heart attack. He was seventy-seven years old, and had retired from active preaching last year. The funeral is to be held this (Friday) afternoon at 2 o'clock at the First Methodist Episcopal church in Long Beach, when there will doubtless be an outpouring of Methodist members and pastors who have been associated with his long career in the pulpit.

At the homecoming services at Covina Methodist church last year, Dr. Inwood preached the sermon, and was the oldest pastor present. Down thru the years, Covina members have kept Dr. Inwood in first place in their hearts, according to a statement this week by Rev. Harry G. Earle, local pastor.

As a young man, just then aspiring to a career in the ministry, he married Jeannette M. Baldridge of Covina, sister of Mrs. E. P. Warner of West College street, and another of the Baldridge girls married his brother. There were five brothers, all Methodist ministers. Dr. Alfred Inwood is the only one in this country, now stationed at Inglewood.

For twelve years previous to his retirement, the deceased was the minister of Belmont Heights church in Long Beach. A large group of Covina city and valley friends were planning this week to be in attendance at the last rites.

Dr. Inwood was born in England. Besides his widow, he leaves one son, Reginald F., who is a Long Beach architect; two daughters, Mrs. Grace Armstrong of Long Beach and Mrs. Ruth Drown of Santa Ana; and four grandchildren.

DOORS

By GENE CHRISTIANSEN

Each one of us has two; a front and a back door. It is thru the front door we give to charity, and thru the back door we repudiate that impulse. It is thru our front door our smile says "Welcome," and thru our back door we say "Fool." It is thru our front door we make a promise and then slip out the back door by not keeping it.

We evaluate a man by what he says from his front door; his smiles of welcome, his words of praise and consolation, his generosity and altruistic acts. His back door is that part of him which none but he will ever know; it is that part of him which etches deep lines on his face, causes sleepless nights and parsimonious impulses.

Let your front door be a true indication of your soul; let its light shine out in splendor. Be nothing, do nothing, think nothing which would not be an ornament at your front door.

CITRUS INDUSTRY'S RELATION TO COMMUNITY BUSINESS TOLD BY EXCHANGE MANAGER

Highlights of an address by General Manager Paul S. Armstrong of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, delivered last Friday night before the Covina Men's club, have been selected as follows:

Economists tell us that there are three basic sources of wealth—agriculture, mining of mineral resources, and manufacturing—or converting raw materials to useful form. Each community's existence depends upon one or another combinations of these things, and the growth of a community or a nation depends upon its ability to maintain a favorable trade balance. The ghost mining towns of the desert, abandoned because their ability to produce wealth was gone, are examples.

California is peculiarly fortunate in respect to all three of these basic sources of wealth, being notable for its general production and natural resources and with its manufacturing developing rapidly.

California has another natural resource which is inexhaustible. I refer to our climate and scenic attractions, which constitute "invisible export" to add to our trade balance. These attractions bring people to visit us in large numbers and transfers capital (which is stored wealth) produced elsewhere to California, which keeps people in many walks of life gainfully employed here.

About half of the wealth produced in California is of agricultural origin. Of this the largest single source is citrus fruit, which returned a balance of trade of over $110,000,000 last year.

I suppose very few people who read the press reports of returns for the citrus and other crops realize how widely these returns are distributed and what proportion goes to labor and for materials and services furnished by other industries.

Let's take the citrus industry as an example. This industry furnishes directly the livelihood for about two hundred thousand people in California, the growers and their families being less than half of this total.

DOLLAR RETURN TOLD

The 1936 citrus crop of California sold in the primary markets for about 150 million dollars. Of this sum first deduct 40 million for freight and refrigeration, over half of which is said to go directly to railroad labor as wages. Wages for labor take approximately 30 millions, divided roughly 18 million in the groves and 12 million to packing house workers.

Orchard supplies such as fertilizer, water, pest control and orchard heating take another 18 millions, and packinghouse materials, chiefly boxes, wraps and processing materials, 10 million more. These materials come from numerous industries that employ labor.

We now have left out of our original sales value in the markets of 150 million dollars, about one-third, or 50 millions, available to the 18,000 growers, with which to meet interest charges or return on the capital invested, much of which is borrowed from banks and other lenders; also depreciation on trees or money set aside to replace the trees when they need it, and margin for profit or reserve. Interest at 6 per cent on present vaulation of orchards figures about 25 millions, and depreciation on trees at 3 per cent, 4 million additional. Many people forget these things when looking at figures on returns, and do not stop to consider where the money goes, and in how many ways it is put to work to help the general welfare.

NOT SIZE-CONSCIOUS

While citrus orchards add to the beauty and interest of our countryside, we are not as yet conscious of the size of the industry as if it were a factory all under one roof. The 300,000 acres of citrus plantings widely distributed thruout California could all be planted within the city limits of Los Angeles.

Our weather last January was not merely unusual—it was extraordinary. We had the most prolonged cold period on record, and the most extensive orchard heating ever practiced. About 40 per cent of the citrus acreage now has some type of frost protection, principally oil-burning heaters. There are about four million of these heaters. They were all in use last winter, and required the service of 20,000 firemen. Eighty million gallons of oil were burned, and this fuel and labor cost the growers several million dollars. With all this protection we still lost 16 million boxes, or 35,000 carloads of citrus fruit.

The industry is doing its best to eliminate the smoke problem. Smoke must be reduced to a minimum, but crops must also be saved; otherwise, many of our communities would not have any homes, stores or furnishings to protect.

ORCHARD HEATING

University of California requires a $45,000 budget to continue research on orchard heating for the next two years. The Fruit Growers Supply Company appropriated $10,000 early in March to enable the University staff to immediately begin its study. C. C. Teague, president of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, has put up a $5000 award as an added stimulus to the development of frost protection equipment that will eliminate the smoke problem and at the same time do a more efficient job for the growers.

The short crop as a result of the freeze may return as many or more dollars as would have been returned for a full crop, but the returns will not be as widely or evenly distributed. Although the returns are, unfortunately, not evenly distributed still the total f.o.b. return on Southern California navels for the Exchange will reach about $12,500,000 which is 10 per cent more than was received last year.

Our Southern California navel shipments this season are 25 per cent less than they were last year. For all producing districts, Exchange navel shipments are only about 7 per cent less than in 1936 but f.o.b. returns will be about $2,600,000 or 17 per cent more.. We figured that our reduced southern navel crop would need to average $2.42 f.o.b. per packed box to equal last year's return on the tree and our actual average on southern California navels is going to be slightly above $3.00, estimating remaining shipments at today's market.

VALENCIA OUTLOOK

Valencia prospects are good as to price, although the volume available for sale as fresh fruit is still very uncertain. This has been a good season on lemons to date and should continue so.

It has been a constant struggle in the citrus industry to develop demand rapidly enough to keep pace with the ever increasing supply, particularly during our recent depression years. Post-war plantings are now in full production and our sales have been running from 35 to 40 per cent ahead of 1929 levels. This required unceasing research for new uses and for more impelling arguments for the use of citrus fruits. That is the reason for greater emphasis on health arguments in Sunkist advertising. Our citrus is fortunate, indeed, to have both appetite and health appeal.

QUALITY PRODUCTS

The Exchange keeps closely in touch with diet, nutrition, child feeding, etc., throughout the world and when any promising leads develop we expedite work by granting funds and furnishing fruit to research institutions.

With our higher costs for wages, taxes, water, pest control, orchard heating and transportation, all of which are higher than in competing regions, California must provide quality products in order to win in the constant battle for markets. We must protect our reputation for quality during this critical year and keep faith with the consumers of our fruit.

If any industry enjoys a good consumer demand, other business problems can be readily solved, but without consumer demand you have no business. The most valuable asset any business can enjoy is the buying confidence of the consuming public.

World Needs Church Guidance Forum Told

Joseph Scott, Los Angeles attorney, was the speaker before the Monday night forum of Covina evening high school on April 19, discussing the topic, "The Layman and His Church in World Affairs."

Burden of his message was for an extension of the principles of brotherly love and Christian service in all human relationships. He reviewed the activities of a few laymen thru the history of U. S. affairs, pointing out the prayer of Washington at Valley Forge, and the expression of Thomas Jefferson in later life in his advice to a youth to "Adore God, revere and cherish his parents, love his neighbor as himself, and his country better than himself." The actions and words of Lincoln in the days of civil strife were quoted as evidence of his Christian faith.

Mr. Scott stressed the need of such actions today among men as they go about their daily tasks whether great or small. A further thought dealt with the satisfaction that comes from the law of obedience, and a charity that makes brothers of all men.

Mr. Scott spoke as a layman of the Catholic church and in doing so cited a recommendation of Pope Leo XIII released many years ago in which he commended the rights of all men to a living wage and a good family life. He further pointed out that this condition has been greatly extended during the present age and that there is a growing understanding between capital and labor.

Rev. H. E. Hinkley, pastor of the Azusa Baptist church, was chairman of the meeting and introduced Mr. Scott, and Rev. Harry McFarland of the Community church in Baldwin Park conducted a forum discussion following the lecture.

Safeway Begins Nation-Wide Pear Campaign

Announcement of a nation-wide canned pear drive was received yesterday by L. L. Wood, district manager of Safeway stores. California Bartlett pears will be the headline feature.

"A bulletin from the Pacific coast canning pear stabilization committee," said Mr. Wood, "reports large shipments of canned pears into the retail markets of the country. Owing to a surplus of stocks carried over, the 1936 crop pears have been the weakest spot in the canned fruit list. This has made them comparatively attractive in price and the carry-over is now being moved into consumer's hands to make way for the 1937 crop.

"While Safeway stores are lending a hand in the movement of this surplus of pears, for the benefit of growers and customers alike, they will also feature all the popular canned fruits in advance of the summer season of fresh fruits."

Facts in regard to the canned pear situation, submitted by the stabilization committee, included the following statements: There was a Pacific coast carry-over of one million cases on June 1 last; the 1936 pack was in excess of five million cases, nearly a million cases above the average for a five-year period; export sales last fall fell off about 300,000 cases; all shipments were seriously affected by the maritime strike; present canned pear stocks are estimated at over 3,000,000 cases, 50 per cent above normal.

The agricultural committee of the National Association of Food Chains, of which Safeway is a member, recently approved a national sales campaign on canned pears. John A. Logan, association executive vice-president, promised the cooperation of 37,000 retail stores, located in all forty-eight states. They hope to sell at least one extra can of pears to 48,000,000 families during the drive.

GROWS MORE DESIRABLE

ROSE HILLS Memorial Park is purposely situated at a distance from closely-populated centers. Yet it is easily accessible from surrounding communities.

An ever-increasing but never-encroaching population adds constantly to its desirability. For at Rose Hills the peaceful calm of these sacred slopes is forever guarded.

Now, while prices are so favorable, is the time to select a family memorial—either in the shaded lawns or within the stately Mausoleum.
